RUSSIA DEMANDS RUMANIAN NAVY BASES

BELGRADE, March 5 (AP)—High diplomatic quarters said tonight that General Ion Antonescu, premier of Rumania, rushed to Vienna today to confer with Reichsmarshal Goering because Soviet Russia had demanded that Rumania immediately cede naval bases on the Black Sea to her.

The diplomats said they had received this information in dispatches from Bucharest. They asserted that Russia's demands were of "an ultimative nature," setting a brief time limit for Rumania's reply.

An International News Service dispatch from Budapest said the Rumanian government had seized 54 Greek ships lying in Rumanian ports.

WAR NEARS IN BALKANS, BRITISH SAY

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 5 (AP)—Britain broke off diplomatic relations with German-occupied Bulgaria today, marking what British Minister George W. Rendel called "the first step toward plunging Bulgaria into war and her territory into a bloody battlefield."

The break, which brought the shadow of death and destruction closer to southeastern Europe, came at the moment that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John Dill, chief of the imperial army staff, concluded their talks with Greek leaders in Athens on defense of Greece against an expected hourly attack from Adolf Hitler's armies.

London announced that effective immediately, Bulgaria will be regarded by the British government as an "enemy destination" and all goods of Bulgarian origin or ownership will be liable to seizure. The ministry of economic warfare, in its announcement of Bulgaria's new status, said the government "must now regard Bulgaria as territory under enemy occupation."—Editor's note.

As events rolled forward at breakneck pace, Turkish leaders in Ankara let it be known their nation would remain faithful to their alliance with Britain despite Hitler's last minute message in an attempt to force a wedge between the allies.

In that message, dramatically flown to the Turkish capital yesterday, the German Fuehrer was said by high quarters in Ankara to have expressed a desire to look after Turkey's "interest and well-being."

Premier-General Ion Antonescu of German-occupied Rumania flew to Vienna today for a four-hour conference with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, while a million Rumanian reservists were massing near Rumania's Prut river frontier with Soviet Russia.

Termination of the conferences among Eden, Dill and Greek leaders in Athens found thousands of

JENKINS' SKETCHES TO ILLUSTRATE AUSTEN LAKE STORIES OF BRITAIN

NEW YORK, March 5 (INS)—Burris Jenkins, Jr., famous cartoonist, returned today from London with praise for the British and a portfolio bulging with sketches of England at war.

The drawings will appear in the Boston Evening American as illustrations for the series of articles on Britain now being written in London by Austen Lake, American reporter.

"Every man, woman and child in England is girded for a finish fight," said Jenkins, who spent six weeks in the British Isles sketching Britain at war. "The entire island bristles with defenses, open and concealed. There are tank traps, gun emplacements, moving troops, crawling tanks everywhere you turn."

The cartoonist, who mingled with civilians and soldiers and toured raid shelters as well as bombed areas, estimated that one-twelfth of London had been damaged. He lauded England's women.

"They won't leave London or their homes," he said. "I talked to one who had been bombed three times. She told me 'I'd rather die in England than live anywhere else.'"

Jenkins told of being in a shelter housing 12,000 persons when another nearby was bombed and 180 occupants killed. He said:

"The British have developed a fatalism which makes most of them remain in their homes during a raid or go calmly about their business in the streets. In fact, the people seem to take it better during a raid than during the lulls which make them nervous and wonder what the Germans might be up to.

"England is like a big concentration camp. It's hard to get in or out, they are so suspicious. There have been lots of German spies executed. I was almost arrested several times as a spy when I was sketching in the streets."

Purse Strings on Aid Tightened by Senate

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The Senate adopted today an amendment to the British Aid Bill designed to tighten Congressional control of "the purse strings" by requiring the President to obtain specific Congressional approval before committing the government to future expenditures under the aid program.

The amendment, approved without dissent, was recommended by the foreign relations committee and proponents said it was offered to quiet arguments that the legislation would give the President "blank check" authority.

The provision states that the Chief Executive could make contracts under the aid measure only to the extent that money is appropriated or contracts are specifically authorized from time to time.

This limitation does not apply, however, to $1,300,000,000 of military equipment which the government already owns or which Congress already has appropriated for. This equipment could be transferred without further congressional authorization.

Also approved was an amendment terminating the bill on July 1, 1943, or on any earlier date ap-

U. S. Expert After World Tour Forecasts War Moves

By JAMES E. BROWN

LONDON, March 5 (INS)—Nazi Germany's hopes for victory lie in a concerted onslaught against shipping—jugular vein of the British Empire. Great Britain, on the other hand, will make her supreme bid for triumph by a blow at Rumania—solar plexus of the Rome-Berlin Axis.

This picture of the war and its immediate future was outlined to this correspondent today by a semi-official American traveler who has just arrived in London after an extensive tour of the capitals of Europe.

He insisted on anonymity for obvious reasons. But he has had a better opportunity than any other American to study the European picture in all its phases, from every point of view and in virtually every capital.

So far as a German invasion of England is concerned, he is doubtful. Adolf Hitler will not try it, he says, unless he has at least a 90 per cent chance of success.

And this margin obviously cannot be gained unless or until the British fleet and merchant marine upon which this island kingdom depends are smashed.

The next six months he foresees as a period of shadow-boxing during which Hitler will try to soften England through attacks by sea and air and perhaps by land in the Mediterranean and Middle East.

During this time, of course, Hitler will attempt a knockout blow if England lets down her guard and provides him with an opening. But, the speaker emphasized, the Fuehrer will not be misled into attempting any gamble which affords more than a 10 per cent chance of failure.

Germany's decision to occupy Bulgaria and Hitler's other moves in the Balkans, he said, are all designed to protect Rumania—the soft spot or solar plexus.

At thesame time, Germany has built, and is still building, a bastion to the south, giving Hitler an opportunity for the first time to hack away at British shipping in the Mediterranean.

Hitler, he said, has laid his war plans like a master chess-player. Except for the destruction of Great Britain, he has no single aim or purpose. Various options have been set up. Invasion of Britain stands at the top of the list. But attacks upon Gibraltar, Iraq, Suez, Greece and even the Russian Ukraine are in the Nazi books. They are being held in reserve, my informant said, for use in later stages of the war.

Pointing to a huge map on the floor on which he traced various potential German thrusts across the Mediterranean and into Africa, the speaker insisted that Bulgaria did not want German occupation.

King Boris and all his advisers, he said, were more than anxious to maintain peace in their theater of Europe but were absolutely helpless.

German and Italian offensive action against Yugoslavia is not likely to be necessary, he said. Now flanked on both sides, this largest of all Balkan countries probably will enter the Axis fold without resistance.

In conclusion, the informant emphasized that naval power—as in the last war—will ultimately be a decisive factor. His last words were:

"I feel confident that Britain will pull through."

Crash Kills 3 Hub Girls, 2 Boys

Three girls and two young men, all of the West End, were killed today at Gilson's Corner, Ayer, when their automobile sideswiped a B. & M. bus, carrying soldiers to Fort Devens, and then crashed head-on into a second bus.

The collision sheared off the front wheels of the second bus and the lighter car was ground under its nose. The double wreck skidded along the road into a ditch and against a stone wall, mangling the victims beyond recognition.

Eight hours passed before all of the dead were finally identified as:

BLANCHE STOLACH, 16, of Brighton st.

RUTH STOLACH, 18, her sister.

OLGA PTASHNICK, 20, of Willard st.

ANTHONY A. RIBNECK, 20, of Barton ct.

GERALD PELLETIER, 21, of Auburn st.

Identification was made through Frank Cincotta, 21, of Milton st., also West End, who missed by a matter of minutes having gone on the death ride with the five victims.

The Stolach sisters' family recognized descriptions of two "friendship rings" found in the wreckage of the car.

The older Stolach girl, friends in the West End said, had probably been visiting a boy friend at Devens who had been drafted a few weeks ago. They knew him only as "Chippy."

The Ptashnick girl's identity was established from a strapped ankle, which was sprained a few days

EX-KING CAROL, MAGDA LUPESCU FLEE TO PORTUGAL FROM SPAIN

BUCHAREST, March 5 (AP)—Former King Carol of Rumania and his red-haired friend of many years, Mme. Magda Lupescu, who went into exile with him, were reported today to have escaped to Portugal from Spain, where they were under "protective custody" at the Rumanian government's request.

Carrying a Polish diplomatic passport, they fled across the frontier to Spain last night, friends of the ex-monarch said they were informed.

Lisbon friends of former King Carol of Rumania said today that he had arrived in Portugal from Spain. Information as to whether Mme. Magda Lupescu was with him was not available.—Editor's note.

Carol abdicated last September, leaving the throne to his son, Michael. Carol fled through Yugoslavia and Italy to Switzerland, accompanied by Mme. Lupescu.

From Switzerland they went to Spain where the monarch vainly sought to get permission to travel further, perhaps to the United States.

Carol and Mme. Lupescu were said to have posed as man and wife and ridden in an automobile with a Polish diplomatic license.

They were reported to have crossed the frontier at Rosal de la Frontera near Huelva.

The Rumanian government sought last fall to have Mme. Lupescu extradited from Spain to face trial on charges of embezzling state funds.

The Spanish government let them live in the Seville Hotel but it was understood they were under "internment."

Maid With Clothes Abaze Saved by Newton Broker

A 74-year-old Newton real estate broker today saved the life of a maid in his home after the woman had become a veritable living torch while boiling floor wax.

Miss Mary Dennon, 29, was boiling the wax on a kitchen range in the home of Edmond M. Poulin, Everett st., when the liquid began to bubble over onto the floor.

She picked up the container to put it in the sink. In the excitement her clothing became ignited.

She ran screaming through the house till Poulin caught her, threw her to the floor, and rolled her in a rug.

By this time the kitchen was ablaze and Mrs. Suzanne Poulin called the fire department. All three persons fled the home. Miss Dennon and Poulin both were treated for burns by firemen.

Poulin was burned about the arms, hands, face and head; Miss Dennon suffered burns about the entire body.

Firemen estimated damage to the house at $1000.

MAINE YOUTH TELLS HOW NAGGING DROVE HIM TO SLAYING OF 4

LEWISTON, Me., March 5—"I got fed up with their naggin' and slurs. I shot them all because I couldn't stand it any longer.

Calmly and with little show of emotion, 24-year-old Arthur Pellerin so confessed today the mass murders of his young wife, his mother-in-law, his aunt and his 12-year-old nephew.

"I killed four people; I want to give myself up," was the startling introduction the youthful mill hand made to Desk Officer John J. Breen at police headquarters.

The dead were:

MRS. PEARL STEVENS PELLERIN, 21, his wife.

MRS. PEARL STVENS, 59, his mother-in-law.

GEORGE STEVENS, 12 his nephew.

MRS. FLORA CURRIE, 60, aunt of Mrs. Pellerin.

There was another member of the household he wanted to get, Pellerin said, according to police today when the mass slayer was arraigned in municipal court.

Capt. J. A. Pickard said the householder who escaped was Mrs. Gargaret Gogan, mother of little George. But she had gone to Lisbon for the day.

In court, Pellerin pleaded not guilty to the charge of slaying four persons nad was held for the Juneterm of superior court.

For 30 hours he had wandered Lewiston streets, unable to eat or sleep. A few beers gave him the courage necessary to come in and tell his story—an almost unbelievable tale which unbelieving police soon found to be true.

Police Chief Thomas Johnson talked with Pellerin for two hours, during which he outlined his family troubles and told of how he had wiped them out.

THREW UP JOB

"They were always slammin' and slurrin' me," Pellerin declared, according to Chief Johnson, who took a five-page transcript of the alleged confession.

"I stood it as long as I could. I threw up my job at the woolen mill Monday afternoon and went out and had a few beers. There was trouble as soon as I got home.

"I sent my wife out for some groceries, first of all.

"A fellow couldn't even take a few beers, but what they nagged him.

"First, I shot my mother-in-law. I had the revolver in the house. I bought it about three months ago to go hunting. Then I shot my wife's aunt in her bedroom.

"The thing I'm sorry for was the little fellow . . . little George . . . it was too bad he came in when he did. There was nothing else left to do then.

"Then I waited for my wife. She came in the hall and I followed her into the kitchen. I shot her, too, and then locked the door and went out.

"I never thought of running away. I got a few drinks and went over to my sister's house for the night. But I couldn't sleep and I got up early. I went into a movie for a few hours but things weren't getting any better.

"COULDN'T EAT"

"I hung around yesterday until supper time and then went over to my sister's again. But I couldn't eat anything and I guess everybody began to notice something was wrong. I decided to get it over with.

"I went out and had a few beers during the evening and then came in here to see you fellows. I thought it just as well to tell the story now instead of waiting 'til you fellows came after me."

All four of the family were killed shortly after 6:30 Monday evening. It was shortly afterwards that Pellerin is alleged to have locked the door and walked out.

Although he could have had a long start on police, the killer made no attempt to run away. He chose to wander about Lewiston waiting for the crime to be discovered.

Pellerin had but one request after his long talk with police. He asked for Edward Beauchamp, well known Lewiston attorney, who went at once to police headquarters.

"I found Pellerin under quite a strain," Beauchamp said today.

"I called in Dr. Paul Chevalier to make a physical and superficial mental examination. What plea will be made is still problematical."

When police entered Pellerin's Winter st. cottage home they found three victims in the kitchen. The body of his wife and young nephew were sprawled together among groceries that she was carrying.

The young wife's mother was dead in a kitchen chair. All three had been shot in the head with deadly accuracy.

The fourth victim, Mrs. Currier, was a crippie. Her body lay in a first floor bedroom. She, too, was shot in the head.

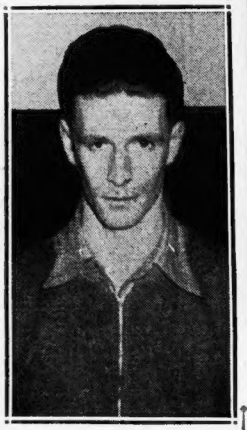
Only once did Pellerin seem on the point of breaking down. That was when he told of shooting his nephew.

"I'm sorry I had to shoot him," he was quoted as saying. "He just happened to come in at the wrong time."

Pellerin, in his statement to authorities, said there had been family strife for many months, much of it occurring whenever he came home with a few beers.

Questioned by police, none of the neighbors told of hearing the shots.

County Atty. Armand Dufresne immediately took charge of the case, ordering Dr. Romeo Beliveau, medical examiner, to perform autopsies on all the victims.



ARTHUR PELLERIN
'I Killed Four People'

KILLED FOR "NAGGING"—Shot to death by Arthur Pellerin because he "couldn't stand their naggin' any more," the bodies of his wife, Mrs. Pearl Stevens Pellerin, his nephew, George Stevens, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Stevens, lie in the kitchen of their Lewiston home. Also slain was Mrs. Flora Currier, 60-year-old aunt of Mrs. Pellerin.

Worcester Man For Tax Board

Reappointment of George H. Nelson, of Worcester, to the State Appellate Tax Board was one of five appointments submitted today to the Governor's Council for confirmation.

Others were, Dr. Raymond V. Vinal, Norwell, as associate medical examiner of Plymouth County, second district, to succeed Dr. Joseph Frame whose term has expired.

Paul A. Tamburello, public administrator in Berkshire County, to succeed the late William Woodhead.

Herbert B. Ehrmann of Brookline, reappointed a member of the civil service commission, and Dr. Elmer S. Bagnall, Groveland, reappointed medical examiner of Essex County, sixth district.

Also Susanne P. Shalina, reappointed a member of the board of review of the Division of Unemployment Compensation. Confirmation of her appointment by the council is not necessary.

Boy, 2, Missing 3 Nights Found on Roof

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Two-year-old Robert James, who disappeared Sunday night, was found today on the roof of a building two blocks from his home. He was in good condition except for a cold.

Scores of police and detectives had searched a wide area for the child, and several thousand descriptive circulars had been circulated. It was not learned how he reached the roof or how long he had been there.

WASHINGTON, March 5—Appointments as second lieutenants in the Air Reserve were announced today by the War Department for Arthur Vincent Cullen, Jr., of 35 Bourne st., Jamaica Plain; George O'Day McCafferty of 16 Ruth st., Worcester; Richard Ashley Shedden of Concord; William George Walker, Jr., of 30 Brantwood rd., Arlington.

All-Alike Women's Hats Too Dull, Says First Lady

WASHINGTON, March 5 (INS)—Mrs. Roosevelt today took sharp issue with a suggestion by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins that women's hats should be standardized.

At her press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt stoutly defended the right of women to adorn their heads with anything that pleases them.

"If women want to wear wild hats let 'em," she asserted. "I'm all for independence in hat wearing."

Asked if Miss Perkins' proposal to standardize ladies' chapeaux like automobiles or ice boxes, would not solve the hat problem for the girls, the First Lady replied:

"Yes, but it would be dull."

Mrs. Roosevelt will fly to Florida tomorrow for a ten-day vacation at Golden Beach.

The First Lady told her press conference today she has no plans to meet the Duchess of Windsor during her stay in the South. She said she will just lie in the sun and swim.

O'Hara's Ex Staged 'Riot,' Cops Testify

Mrs. Helen Kennison, 46-year-old former wife of Walter E. O'Hara who was killed last week, recently bit a police sergeant on the thumb and tore up her mattress in a police cell, officers testified today in Brookline court.

The former wife of the one-time race track czar went on trial today on charges of drunkenness, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and malicious destruction of police property.

These charges against Mrs. Kennison—who filed a divorce suit against her present husband last December, after a year of marriage—grew out of an automobile accident at 2:20 a. m. Feb. 16.

Her car, according to police, was in collision at Beacon and Carlton sts., Brookline, with one operated by Daniel Hickey of Washington st., Brookline, who had Jack Malaney, Brookline florist, as a passenger.

"YOU CAN'T DO THIS TO ME"

Patrolman Thomas McCusker testified that after Mrs. Kennison was taken to Brookline police headquarters in a cruiser car, "It took us five minutes to ease her into the station."

Then, he said, she refused to give Capt. Hill her hat, her ring or her handbag or valuables. Instead, she allegedly uttered the age-old classic:

"You can't do this to me."

"It took two of us to get her into a cell," added McCusker, and in his testimony he was corroborated by Patrolman Cornelius O'Connor.

Sergt. James D. Casey testified that when he arrived at the accident scene, he said to Mrs. Kennison:

"You've been drinking? Where have you been?"

"I've been to the house of Lieut. Col. Hennessey," the sergeant said she replied. "Ever hear of him? He's at Camp Edwards. I was at his house in Newton."

"HAD 5 OR 6 HIGHBALLS"

According to Sergeant Casey, when he questioned her on how much she had taken, she said:

"I only had five or six highballs. What of it? I could drive a car with more than that any time."

Then, when told she was under arrest, she allegedly cried:

"I'll see about this. You can't do this to me. I'm a respectable woman."

In the station, Mrs. Kennison asked him to call Col. Hennessey at camp, according to Casey, but he declined and asked if she wished him to call Mrs. Hennessey instead at Newton. But the prisoner did not want Mrs. Hennessey disturbed, said the witness, and declared:

"Mrs. Hennessey advised me not to drive the car. She wanted me to stay there."

"SHE BIT MY THUMB"

The police sergeant said he and Patrolman McCusker placed her in a cell after some difficulty.

"She did considerable struggling," said the sergeant. "She sank her teeth into my thumb but didn't break the skin.

Jackie Coogan In Army, Hopes To Be Flier

JACKIE COOGAN, 26

Opening a new chapter in his troubled life, Jackie Coogan, 26, the one-time child movie star, enters the army hoping to become a flier. His induction, at his own request, was set ahead several weeks.

He will be stationed at Ft. MacArthur, mushrooming army base on the ocean at San Pedro. The fort is a far cry from the movie studios, where he won fame as a sometimes pathetic, always human juvenile star, but where he could find no place when he grew up.

Coogan's life in recent years has not been a happy one. For months he wrangled in the courts with his mother and stepfather, Arthur Bernstein, over his right to income of millions as a youngster. Coogan claimed he had earned $4,000,000, but a settlement in 1939 found only about $150,000 left for him.

His marriage to Betty Grable ended in divorce. He achieved slight success in several attempts at movie comebacks. Theatrical tours treated him a little more kindly.

But friends say he has been really happy only in the past few months, since he and two partners formed a flying service at Metropolitan airport.

LYNCH WINS COUNCIL O. K. AS CLERK

Daniel J. Lynch of Belmont was confirmed by the executive council today as clerk of the Boston Municipal Court despite Democratic opposition.

Only two Democrats, Daniel H. Coakley of Brighton and Joseph P. Clarke of Fall River, opposed confirmation.

Councilors James A. Donovan of Lawrence, Edmund Burke of Worcester and Daniel M. Walsh, Jr., of Springfield, all Democrats, joined with the Republican members in the vote.

The latter three were Councillors Claytorn M. Havey of Boston, Frank A. Brooks of Watertown and Raymond S. Wilkins of Winchester. Wilkins, Gov. Saltonstall's personal counsel, was elected yesterday and was casting his first vote.

Lynch, the governor's former chief secretary, will receive $5000 annually, with increases until a top of $6500 is reached in five years.

He is married and father of three daughters and a son. He lives in Louise rd., Belmont. He was born in South Boston 37 years ago.

WATERTOWN RUN-DOWN DRIVER IS GIVEN YEAR

Found guilty today of assault on a Cambridge doctor he was charged with attempting to run down with an automobile, Abraham Hanunian, 29, of Quimby st., Watertown, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction in Middlesex Superior Court.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Harold P. Williams after Atty. Dwight L. Allison, counsel for Hanunian, argued that a psychological condition known as the temporary suspension of powers of inhibition was responsible for his client's act.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony Di Chicco, in asking that Hanunian be given a sentence, said that perhaps he was infatuated with the wife of Dr. Gil J. Cordero, of Erie st., Cambridge, the alleged victim, but even so, there was no excuse since the act was clearly premeditated.

Dr. Cordero testified he was lured from his home by a fake telephone call on the evening of last Nov. 23 and run down by an automobile as he waited at a street corner.

Dr. Cordero's wife, Mrs. Cordero, testified that she had gone out on occasions with Hanunian in his automobile—a light tan finish, which the doctor said, was the color of the car that struck him.

Mrs. Cordero further testified that she and Hanunian had talked about her getting a divorce from the doctor, and that Hanunian had said if he could not have her, no one else would.

Everett Draft Board Takes First Doctor

Obliged to relinquish his practice because of a call by the Everett Draft Board, an Everett physician today was sent for selective service training as a private in the United States Army.

Officers of the Army Induction board explained that Dr. Vincent A. Andalora of Broadway, Everett, will be sworn in first as an ordinary soldier and then will be classified for service once he is in the Army.

By drafting of Dr. Andalora as one of its 40-odd selectees today, the Everett draft board sent for training its first physician.

Dr. Andalora is 31 years old and unmarried. He was graduated from Everett High School and Boston College, attended Boston University, was graduated from Middlesex Medical School in 1938 and interned at the Leonard Hospital in Troy, N. Y.

The practice he had built up in little more than a year will be divided among other doctors, members of his family said.

He was called for service after a hearing before his board, and was sent to the draft induction center in Columbus ave.

Watertown Aide Called in Draft

If James J. Vahey, 31, Watertown assessor, today is found physically fit he becomes one of the first town officials in the state to be drafted for military service.

At present town officials are undecided on what action to take on Vahey's $1400 town job should he be inducted for immediate service.

Another Watertown resident scheduled for induction in Uncle Sam's Army is 26-year-old German-born Erhard C. Jaeger of Bailey rd., who once served in Hitler's army for 20 months and who was brought up under the influence of Hitler's youth movement. He came to the United States four years ago after service in the motorized division which afterward participated in the Poland invasion.

PALS REUNITED—A separation of two months ends for Corp. E. Buxton of Buffalo and his dog, Rusty, as the canine arrives at Camp Edwards to be reunited with his master. Rusty was shipped from Buffalo as a result of a letter sent to Col. Charles Reidpath by Buxton's mother, saying that the dog refused to eat or exercise since his master's departure.

Nurses Cheer Edwards Boys; Devens Gloomy

Varying fortunes of "This Man's Army" brought gloom today to the boys at Fort Devens and nothing but smiles for the lads at Camp Edwards—at least those who "ain't feelin' well."

For at Ft. Devens, all activities in theaters, reception halls and other places where soldiers gather for amusement were banned by quarantine.

Scarlet fever, measles and mumps are prevalent at the fort and officers are taking no chances, although the condition is not serious.

Now at Camp Edwards, the boys who were bedded down because of minor illnesses, found cheery smiles from a brand new batch of Army reserve nurses.

In the group whose arrival was the only cheery note in an otherwise dismal day of wet weather were Elizabeth Booth Hunt, Brookline; Elsie M. O'Donnell, Burlington, Vt.; Helen F. Adams, Brockton; Ruth S. Anderson, Auburn, R. I., and Margaret T. Carroll, Providence.

Others were Amy G. Nurse, of Malden, whose name certainly fits her calling; Dorothy M. Rodenzel, of Waverly; Marjorie Pillsbury, Fall River; Mary P. Lane, Lawrence; Ellen R. Boguniecki, Waverly, and Margaret C. D. Bowen, of LaSharon st., Boston.

Suing Wife Denies Laundryman Trysts

Charges that he beat her unmercifully during an argument over their children's nursemaid were aired today in Suffolk Probate Court by Mrs. Helen V. Taylor, 28, of Wolcott rd., Stoneham, seeking divorce from Chester Taylor, a Revere fireman.

Under cross-examination the young wife repeatedly denied that Joseph Santoro, a Revere laundryman, was anything more than a personal friend of the family and was not the cause of all the trouble between her husband and herself.

She told the court that she married Taylor at the age of 15 on Jan. 1, 1928, and they lived together until April, 1940.

"PUNCHED MY FACE"

According to Mrs. Taylor the trouble arose when her husband threw the nursemaid's clothing out on the piazza. She said that when she put the clothing back in the hall Taylor became enraged.

Earlier in the same day her husband could not find his gloves and accused her of giving them to her boy friend or gigilo," she testified.

"I told him," she testified, "that I had no boy friend or gigilo. He then threw me on the floor and punched my face."

Atty. John J. Riley, representing Taylor, was told by Mrs. Taylor under cross-examination that immediately after their marriage she went home to live with her mother.

She explained this by pointing out that she was only 15 when married and her mother did not want them to live together because of her age.

It was at this point that the name of Joseph Santoro was brought into the case by Atty. Riley.

"Q—In 1940 wasn't Mr. Santoro in your house about 9:30 a. m. when your husband came in? A—Yes.

"Q—How were you clothed? A—I had on my regular house coat.

"Q—Then your husband came in? A—Yes.

—"Q—Did he order him from the premises? A—No.

"Q—What conversation did he have? A—He asked him not to call for the laundry any more."

Riley then returned to the incident about the gloves.

"Q—Wasn't it a fact Mr. Taylor ran into the hallway? A—Yes.

"Q—Why did he run into the hallway? A—I don't know.

"Q—You didn't chase your husband with an old-fashioned musket? A—I did.

UNDERWENT OPERATION

Riley again switched to the subject of Santoro and Mrs. Taylor said that she had known him about nine years and that her husband had told her to keep away from him.

The subject of an operation was then brought up by Riley.

Q—Isn't it a fact you borrowed $100 for an illegal operation? A—Yes. My husband made me do it.

Q—Was the operation performed by a Chelsea doctor? A—Yes it was.

"Q—Who drove you home after the operation? A—A chauffeur.

"Q—It wasn't Joe Santoro? A—No.

"Q—You know the basis of all the trouble between your husband and yourself was Joe Santoro? A—No. He's a friend of the whole family.

"Q—How many arguments did he have about Joe Santoro? A—About two.

"Q—Did your husband ever walk into the house and find you sitting on Joe Santoro's lap? A—No, he did not.

Q—"Have you ever kissed Mr. Santoro. A—"No."?

The couple have four children, Chester, 11; Donald R., 9; Helen M., 8, and Carolyn, 8 months. Chester is scheduled to appear as a witness for Taylor.

The case is continuing.

ASCAP BRANDS 3 STATE BILLS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Three bills, which would in effect eliminate the jurisdiction of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers over public performances of their members' music in this State, were scored as unconstitutional at the State House today.

ASCAP had its general counsel, Louis D. Frolich of New York, launch the attack against the proposals, and John G. Paine, the society's general manager, followed.

While Frolich charged that National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System were backing these bills, Harold Fellows, chairman of the Massachusetts broadcasters' committee, said he was there to record his organizations' opposition.

Fellows said he represented 20 radio stations operating in this state and that his fellow members believed the bill was not only unconstitutional, but detrimental to all concerned.

Only one person spoke in favor of the bills—Rep. Daniel F. Sullivan (D.) of Lowell, who said he was an entertainer himself and wanted to "take dictatorship out of the musical world."

"All these bills not only impinge upon, but destroy the copyrights of the members of ASCAP," Frolich told the legislative committee on constitutional law.

"They have been deliberately designed to make it impossible for either ASCAP or its individual members to comply with the requirements of the bills."

It would cost the Commonwealth hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to enforce the measures, he asserted, inasmuch as it would have to set up recording machinery

John G. Paine

Louis Trohlich

for which "there is no necessity."

"These bills are class legislation and not in the public interest, but in the interett of broadcasters and other users," Frolich charged.

"Bills identical with them and substantially similar to these have been introduced in various states since 1937, and in Florida, Nebraska and Tennessee, such statutes have been held to be unconstitutional by statutory courts, consisting in the aggregate of 11 federal judges."

General Manager Paine opened his opposition to the proposals by recalling that this State enacted the first copyright law, which was followed as a model by the other states, and later became the ground work for the federal copyright law which replaced state regulations.

"In the preamble of that (Massachusetts) law," said Paine, "the drafters stated: 'There is no property so peculiarly a man's own as the product of his mind.'

"The copyright law with its many exclusive features granted to authors and composers enables them to collect fees from the commercial exploiters of their product.

"It is to avoid the payment of those fees that laws such as these now before us are presented. Usually those users of music talk of themselves as though they were the public. But these people are not the public.

"These are 'strike bills' in which private individuals come before the Legislature and ask to destroy the property rights of authors and composers in order that they might be able to exploit the products of their brains without payment.

"And let us not kid ourselves that the bills are anything else but that."

In response to a question, General Manager Paine said that his society would be glad to pay any reasonable tax on its income in Massachusetts, as last year ASCAP received $346,000 revenue from this state.

He said that motion picture theaters paid about $50,000; restaurants, $54,000;; hotels, $16,000; dance halls, $6000; miscellaneous sources, $5000. Radio returns were $193,000, of which $156,000 was for fees on commercial broadcasts.

KEEP U. S. A. OUT OF WAR

Your Part in Keeping the U. S. A. Free of War and Dictatorship

Write today to both of your Senators (Massachusetts Senators are David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.). Address them at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Ask them to oppose Bill No. 1776, the Bill of Wrongs which would nullify the Bill of Rights, "a bill to authorize undeclared war in the name of Peace and dictatorship in the name of Defending Democracy."

The President would have absolute power, if this Bill is passed, to do the following without consulting Congress or the people: Cancel the Neutrality Act; Send our warships and merchant vessels and possible to manufacture an incident in the east as well as the west almost the world over and leave our home shores weak and defenseless.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT—Write yourself, simply, clearly—telephone your friends to do the same. Get telegrams in as well but most important, write in person.

Peace House, working with religious and peace organizations of long standing, appeals to all young men who are opposed to war from either religious or humanitarian convictions to register on their draft questionnaire. After years of ardent work for peace our Government recognizes this right. Do not allow the opportunity to escape.

It is a matter of interest to observe that after England's many months of war, Canada does not have compulsory military service for overseas and has no Lease-Lend Bill but is SELLING armaments in large quantities to her mother country. In England over 50,000 Conscientious Objectors are helping their government in peaceful employment.

May not our own beloved country be also accused of war mongering while arming England through the front door and simultaneously slipping munitions to Germany through Russia?

The war in Africa, etc., has certainly no conceivable attribute of democracy. Gandhi, called the only heroic figure of the 20th century, expressed himself recently as follows: "It is a matter of deep regret to me that the Government (British) have not been able to appreciate the Congress (Indian) position—who felt a conscientious objection to helping a war which they regard—as one for saving imperialism, of which India is the greatest victim."

To the Clergy: The undersigned wishes to respectfully entreat you to draw the attention of your congregation to the Ten Commandments as a mode of life to be exercised in the relations between nations as well as individuals.

Longer Skirts, Strapless Dresses Shown in Paris

By ALICE MAXWELL

PARIS (via Berlin), Feb. 25 (delayed) (AP)—Style openings today featured longer skirts, spangled linen jackets and startling low-cut evening dresses minus shoulder straps.

The strapless dresses have heart-shaped front decollettes and low-cut backs for tight fitted bodices above cvrisp full skirts shirred at the hips. Linen evening jackets were treated with elaborate embroideries done in multicolor paillettes.

Slim skirt crepe evening suits were shown by Worth. They were completed with windbreaker or tailleur jackets and tuck-in blouses of spangled chiffon or white crepe.

Short skirted evening suits were featured in black faille, some with closed-back white satin blouses embroidered with brilliant birds. Cocktail dresses appeared in black lace with black silk cutaway jackets.

Printed and plain crepes were used for afternoon frocks. These often had high necks and long bishop sleeves and lingerie details in white organdie or pique.

Longer skirts for day wear showed hems down to one inch below the knee. Front fullness was stressed in panels of pleating for wool skirts and in front shirrings for silks. Waists were tight. Fitted coats showed moderate flares below tight waists.

SEVERAL NEW STRIKES PERIL DEFENSE WORK

A steel plant in Orange, Texas, supplying material for new ship yards at which 12 United States destroyers are to be constructed was involved in a strike today when 247 employes of Consolidated Steel Corporation of Texas walked out.

The engineering firm setting up the Orange shipbuilding facilities said the delay in steel deliveries might cause the laying off of 400 men.

W. H. Payne, agent for the Orange Shopmen's A. F. of L. local, said the 247 shopmen "have contended that the company has passed the buck in negotiations" for a contract calling for a wage increase.

TAKE STRIKE VOTE

CIO members at the Edgewater, N. J., plant of Aluminum Co. of America, busy with military orders, called for a secret strike vote today. The dispute there involved interpretation of the overtime clauses of a working agreement. The balloting, which ends Friday, will determine whether to empower union officials to call a strike.

Defense projects in Maryland were affected by a strike of 1200 AFL roofers whose spokesman complained that work assigned to them had been handed over to carpenters. The roofers are employed on projects at the Naval Academy, Ft. Meade, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Edgewood Arsenal and a Glenn L. Martin airplane plant, among others.

A threatened strike against the Consumers Power Co., which would virtually paralyze utility service over a wide area in southern Michigan, moved nearer a new deadline today as federal and state labor conciliators sought a formula to end the dispute.

STRIKE TOMORROW

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), which only last year won bargaining rights by a small majority over the Utility Workers Organizing Committee (CIO) after three National Relations Board elections, agreed not to call a strike "until 2 p. m."

Among the cities which would be affected are Flint and Lansing, both automotive centers which have large defense orders; Grand Rapids, site of numerous furniture factories; Muskegon, Battle Creek, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Bay City, Saginaw, Adrian and Alpena.

All but Lansing, which receives gas, are dependent upon the company for electricity.

Union employes of the Ingalls Iron Works Co., in Birmingham, Ala., which has approximately $100,000,000 in defense contracts, announced today they would strike at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Stanley Rounds, international representative of the Structural Iron Workers (AFL), said the men were seeking wage increases and a "security" clause.

A strike of construction workers at a $13,000,000 Army anti-aircraft firing center in North Carolina was ended today but an AFL walkout continued to hold up $5,900,000 in essential defense building work at Wright Field, O.

Settlement of the strike at Camp Davis, North Carolina, was announced last night by Frank Sheehan, federal labor conciliator.

The Wright Field strike, a recurrence of a late January walkout, brought a statement from the War Department that work "essential to the expansion of this post as one of the most important military aircraft centers in the United States" had been halted.

The Army is constructing testing and laboratory facilities at Wright Field, near Dayton, and the strike of 200 AFL building trades workers tied up work on a wind tunnel, torque stand, radio laboratory, dynamometer laboratory and administration building.

CITY COUNCIL HEARS PLEA FOR ECONOMY

Recommendations for establishment of a city council committee to study ways of consolidating overlapping departments of the city government and other possible economies was made at a public hearing before the council committee on appropriations today.

The committee, that has been meeting for two weeks to study Mayor Tobin's $44,000,000 budget for 1941, convened for the purpose of airing public recommendations for economy.

Miss Margaret McSweeney, vice-president of the Boston League of Women Voters, made the recommendation for a committee to study consolidation.

BACKS ECONOMY

"It is vitally necessary that individuals and local governments today practice strictest economy, at a period when popular government is fighting for its life in other parts of the world," she said.

"The people and representatives of local government must realize they will be called on to pay heavily in taxes for national defense to make America impregnable; we must practice economy in every way."

Miss McSweeney said that a committee similar to the one she recommended had been appointed by the council in 1935, but that it had "vanished into the thin air."

Councillor James S. Coffey of East Boston, told Miss McSweeney that he personally could show her organization where thousands of dollars of city money is being wasted.

WASTE CITED

"I can show you how to save $200,000 a year for the city on the hire of trucks," he said. "The city hires 72 trucks a year while its own trucks stand idle."

Richard J. Lane, president of the Boston Taxpayers' Alliance and former chairman of the Boston Schoolhouse Commission, also suggested consolidation of city departments.

He said the State should take over part of the city's tax burden, pointing out that Boston pays 45 per cent of the operating costs of Nantasket and Revere Beaches. He also recommended that the State save Boston $200,000 a year by taking over Deer Island House of Correction.

Draft Upsets Honeymoon for Chelsea Pair

Nineteen-year-old Sylvia Pearl of Shurtleff st., Chelsea, gave up a good job four weeks ago to shop for a new home, but as Mrs. Murray Midman today she was wondering if she could get the job back.

For the three-day bride was a draft widow, and her spouse, who is 24, was doing his job as a trainee at Camp Edwards. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Midman of Third st., Chelsea.

Newlywed Mrs. Midman and Murray had been in love for a long time and they set this month for the wedding.

Last Thursday Murray got a card from Draft Board 49 to come in and see the doctor.

He undoubtedly passed the Army physical tests, because the next day he got another card, telling him to report this week for induction.

The couple were married by Rabbi Sherman in Brennan Hall Hotel, Brookline, last Sunday, somewhat in advance of plans.

They thought that maybe they might be able to get some time off for a projected Washington honeymoon, but that's the way things go.

"If we can only stay out of war for another year, I might have my honeymoon yet," said the bride with a sigh.

Pastors Protest Liquor Store Shift

British Envoy Tells Bulgars of Break

Greek soldiers and workmen feverishly reinforcing fortifications barring mountain passes from Bulgaria, through which it was believed the Germans were preparing to smash at any moment.

German troops were reported massing in ever-increasing numbers on Greece's frontier as steady streams of tanks, armored cars and heavy artillery rolled over mud-churned roads into this country from Rumania.

Fleets of heavy bombers and fighter planes stood ready on runways of Bulgaria's airports, only a few minutes by air from Greek soil.

YUGOSLAVIA ARMS

In Yugoslavia, Sir Ronald Campbell, the British ambassador, conferred with Premier Dragisha Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic regarding their position while the Yugoslav general staff pushed precautionary defense measures.

As the shadow of the German military steamroller lengthened over the Greek frontier, the Greek high command stubbornly announced:

"The army and Greek people have decided in the face of events, no matter from what direction, to fight on with the same undying will for their liberty and their fatherland."

Reports reaching here said that 12 German divisions, or about 150,000 men, already had reached the Greek border region by nightfall. A general staff set up headquarters at Plovdiv, Bulgaria's second largest city.

Nothing was known here about what forces the Greek general staff was maintaining across the border, but an Athens general staff communique admitted that "considerable forces" had been sent to Macedonia and eastern Thrace—areas facing Bulgaria—"because of a new situation."

1700 NAZI PLANES

Up until early this evening diplomatic dispatches said there were no signs of an imminent British landing at Salonika, Greece's all-important Aegean port.

Virginio Gayda, Fascist editorial spokesman, asserted in Rome today that the British had landed nearly a whole Canadian division at Salonika.—Editor's note.

Germany's fourth air fleet was reported already installed in Bulgaria, with the sixth fleet held in reserve.

Military observers estimated this fourth air fleet consisted of 1700 planes—a thousand bombers, 600 fighters and 100 observation craft. A force of similar strength was said to be in Rumania.

Rendel's note to Bulgaria, telling of Britain's severance of relations with the Balkan kingdom, was considered by diplomats to be one of the most bitter in the annals of diplomacy. It was read to both Bulgarian Premier Bogdan Philoff and Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff in French.

EARLE TAKES OVER

The break came a few minutes after 10 a. m. when British Minister George W. Rendel read a declaration to the Bulgarian foreign minister, Bogdan Philoff, and then asked for his passport.

"It is a matter of indifference to His Majesty's government what steps Bulgaria may see fit to take to protect herself against external danger," the British declaration said, "but the pressure an dever-increasing number of German troops on Bulgarian soil and the subservience of the Bulgarian government to German policy is incompatible with the maintenance of British diplomatic relations."

The British already have warned Bulgaria that she might be subject to RAF bombing because of the presence of German troops on her soil, which perhaps would make her a major theater of war.

The Bulgarian government "broke relations" yesterday with the Polish, Netherlands and Belgian legations and aske dthose missions of German-conquered nations to quit the country.

The British note stressed Premier Philoff's statement after his return from his signing of the Axis pact Saturday at Vienna that Nazi soldiers would remain "temporarily on Bulgarian soil."

20 British Take 469 Italians

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Capture of 469 Italian officers and troops by a signal section "numbering only 20 to 30 men" in Italian Somaliland was reported today by a British military spokesman.

He said the incident occurred in the Juba river district when an advance signal section, seeking a new headquarters location, surprised an Italian unit.

Duce Warships Shell Greeks

ROME, March 5 (AP)—Italian warships were reported today by the high command to have bombarded Greek positions along the Albanian coast in co-operation with bombing attacks by Fascist warplanes on the Greek island of Crete.

Italian fighter planes engaged "enemy" planes which attacked the warships during the bombardment and shot down six, the daily war bulletin declared. Two Italian planes were listed as missing.

British Drive On in Ethiopia

CAIRO, Egypt, March 5 (AP)—British forces in Ethiopia have occupied the important Italian fort of Burye, near Lake Tana, and are continuing their advance, British headquarters announced today.

Burye is only 150 miles northwest of Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, and its occupation apparently represents extension of the drive of British and Ethiopian "patriot" forces which swept through Dangila and other towns recently toward the capital.

The communique said the British were harassing "an Italian column which now is withdrawing toward Debra Marcos," 120 mile from Addis Ababa.

"In this area," the communique continued, "1500 Italian regulars and 200 colonial troops have deserted with their weapons to join the patriots."

RAF Heads for Big Day Raid in France

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Dispatches from southeastern England said this afternoon that large numbers of British fighting planes were seen flying over the channel, leading observers to believe a big scale daylight operation was being carried out against Nazi-occupied France.

Many of the squadrons were screened by cloud banks. Others were plainly visible under the fleecy skies.

Once a British squadron intercepted a formation of Messerschmitts and there was a general fight which ended when the Nazi planes turned and headed toward Boulogne.

Persons on the coast said they saw two of the German planes fall into the sea.

WARNING IN LONDON

The massed British fighters apparently were protecting bombers from attack. Two formations of bombers were seen flying in the direction of the French coast, eye-witnesses said.

London had a brief air raid warning shortly after noon, but the all clear was sounded without any indication bombs had fallen in the city. It was the capital's first alarm since midnight.

South Wales bore the brunt of German aerial attacks for the second successive night as Nazi bombers scattered incendiaries along Bristol channel and set fires which burned until early morning.

The bombers made Cardiff, South Wales port, their chief target for the second night in succession.

Lesser attacks were launched against various points along the English south coast, a town on the Thames estuary and London. The raids ended about midnight.

It was officially announced that two German bombers were shot into the sea during the night, one off Kent and the other off South Wales.

The Daily Morning bulletin of the Ministries of Air and Home Security made light of the attacks, although it acknowledged "some fires were caused" in Wales.

"Most of these were soon extinguished, and all were under control in the course of the night," the communique said. Casualties were characterized as "small."

PURSE STRINGS ON AID TIGHTENED BY SENATE

proved by a majority of both Houses of Congress.

A similar amendment had been adopted by the House, but the Senate Foreign Relations Committee offered its own amendment in an effort to make the language clearer.

If Congress did not call for termination sooner, the program would expire in two years. The President would have until July 1, 1946, however, to carry out any contracts made prior to July 1, 1943.

Today's vote on the amendment, on which there was no dissent, was the first Senate action on the British aid bill.

Senator White of Maine, sole Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee supporting the bill, told his colleagues he believed that if the United States faced Hitler "with boldness and with firmness" the Nazis would not attack this country.

WHITE URGES SPEED

White took the floor to argue for speedy passage of the measure after opponents had concluded their formal speech making with an address by Sen. Tobey (R.) of New Hampshire, who said the bill could "get us into war overnight" and would make President "the warlord of Europe."

White, while noting that there were "risks" in the program of aiding Britain, said he believed the bill gave "greater assurance of peace than is to be found in vacillation and timidity."

Any President, he continued, might commit errors of judgment or indiscretions that would involve this country in situations making war almost inevitable. But, he added, he saw nothing in the legislation to add to that danger.

If Hitler had wanted to attack the United States, White added, he had plenty of excuses in the transfer of destroyers to Great Britain, the sale of merchant ships and the furnishing of planes and other war equipment, adding.

"Had he seen advantage in assault upon us, he would have done so in the hour of our military unpreparedness. But with every passing hour and with every aid we give to England, he finds himself more fully occupied upon the other side of the Atlantic and he must recognize that as we have grown stronger he has in a relative sense grown weaker.

BOLDNESS NEEDED

"I cannot believe that if we face him with boldness and with firmness he will attack our country and we do not propose to attack his."

After approaching the time limitation, the Senate unanimously accepted another committee amendment requiring that any funds received from nations which obtained American military equipment be covered into the Treasury's general fund by June 30, 1946.

The Senate went to work an hour earlier than usual, to get started on the relatively small changes recommended by its Foreign Relations committee.

This would clear the way for consideration of controversy-freighted major proposals, among them the amendment offered by Senator Ellender (D.) of Louisiana, who wants the bill to contain a proviso against sending American troops out of the western hemishere.

WORK ON COMPROMISE

Administration leaders were reported to have gotten their heads together in effort to work out a compromise of this proposal, thus attempting to eliminate lengthy and acrimonious discussion on the point.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said, however, that while supporters of the measure had given study to most of the amendments that had been proposed there was no agreement of any kind yet on changes in the bill. Between 20 and 30 amendment proposals must be disposed of before the final roll call can be taken.

Tobey, who previously had not announced his position on the measure, declared in his address that he believed more effective aid could be extended by granting Britain $2,000,000,000 in credits in return for naval base sites on British possessions in the Caribbean.

"With this money," he contended, "Britain could make even greater purchases of aircraft, tanks ammunition and other war materials, as fast as we could produce them. It is the method of aid to Britain which has long been advocated by leaders in both the House and Senate.

WOULD AID BRITAIN

"It could be passed by the Congress within 48 hours. It would produce the speediest possible aid to Britain, without risking involvement in the war, and without dividing the country on controversial issues. It would retain the warmaking power in the Congress, where it was placed by the people."

Tobey said the lease-lend program was "fraught with war danger."

"This bill," he said, "gives to one man the unrestricted power, literally to seize anything in the country, whether belonging to the government or to private citizens, and to give it to any other country in the world, without any limit in law.

"It gives to one man the power to give away our Navy or any portion of it—the power to give away our aircraft, Army equipment and military secrets to any country he chooses, including Soviet Russia, which country he has recently favored by lifting the moral embargo against shipments of vital war materials."

Tobey asserted that a section of the bill opening United States ports to the repair or outfitting of belligerent war vessels "alone could get us into war overnight."

Professing to see a parallel between recent events and those that preceded American entry into the World War in 1917, Tobey said this country was "on the brink of war," although "the people haven't fully realized it as yet."

"We are following the same path that we did in the last World War," he asserted. "This lend-lease bill is the vestibule to war. Even more, it will make the President the war lord of Europe."

U-BOATS IN SPOTLIGHT'

Suicide Ships a Hitler Surprse?

BERLIN, March 5 (INS) — Some new U-boat surprises, among them invisible periscopes and trackless torpedoes, are being prepared for the British this spring, German naval circles hinted today.

Rear Admiral Brueninghaus said in an article that it "wouldn't be surprising" if these and other revolutionary technical surprises were used against the British in the anti-blockade campaign.

Among them, Brueninghaus wrote, may be the materialization of every U-boat commander's fondest dream—a single, standard submarine motor. At present, submarines use Diesel for surface travel and electric battery-operated motors for under-seas cruising.

The invisible torpedo, the German naval officer wrote, could be fired without causing a dangerous trail of bubbles. At present, enemy vessels can sometimes maneuver themselves out of difficulty by means of this wake.

The periscope protruding above water is often a dead give-away for a submarine.

Brueninghaus also envisaged as imminent possibilities infra-red ray devices to pierce fog and determine locations of approaching ships.

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Capt. Cunningham Reid told Commons today that Germany was building a fleet of small, fast U-boats manned by "suicide crews" for trips to Britain from which they could have small hope of returning.

Quoting an unidentified American informantin Portugal, Reid declared:

"The new U-boats are equipped with only essential machinery, permitting simplified and consequently shorter training of crews."

Each submarine, he said, will be manned by a third of the usual crew because of its small fuel capacity.

"They are expected to get as far as the shores of our coast, and they are not expected to return," he added. "They are being manned by fanatical young Germans—volunteers of death, or a glory brigade.

"They would fire torpedoes at short range and their subsequent chance of escape, provided there was adequate convoy, would be negligible.

"Providing the enemy have enough of these 'suicide craft' and crews to man them, the menace will be grave."

The admiralty's financial secretary, Sir Victor Warrender, told Reid the admiralty was "fully alive to the traditional ingenuity of the Germans."

RAF Bombers Pound Italian Warships

ATHENS, March 5 (AP—British bombers attacked "enemy warships" in the Adriatic sea off Chimara, Albania, yesterday, RAF headquarters said today, and in a subsequent encounter with Italian fighter planes the British shot down nine. Chimara lies just south of Valona at the entrance to the Adriatic.

BRITISH SEIZE NORSE ISLE, GRAB GERMANS

BERLIN, March 5 (INS)—In their first known successful "counter-invasion" of German-occupied territory, British naval forces landed on a Norwegian island, seized some German soldiers and escaped, the German high command announced.

The attack, which duplicated the temporary seizure of Castelrosso in the eastern Mediterranean last week, was made on a northern Norwegian skerry, or small rocky island. German sources later identified the island as Svolvaer, just outside Narvik harbor.

"Light British naval forces carried out a coup against an unfortified island in the north Norwegian skerries," the high command said. "They landed troops after shelling some fishing boats. The British took some German soldiers and Norwegian fishermen prisoners. They then re-embarked on warships and speedily made off."

German military quarters ridiculed the importance of the foray.

Nazis Near Rock, Commons Hears

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—The British government told Parliament today Germany had 'a considerable number" of soldiers and technicians in French Morocco within 150 miles of the vital Strait of Gibraltar.

R. A. Butler, Parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, said "a representative of the German armistice commission has been at Casablanca for some months."

"Early in February a considerable number of German officers and non-commissioned officers and men are reported to have arrived there in uniform and bearing arms," he said. "Estimates of their number vary. The commissionis said to include technicians of many kinds."

CANADA TROOPS IN GREECE, DUCE MOUTHPIECE CLAIMS

ROME, March 5 (INS)—One Canadian division, as well as other British troops, already have landed at the strategic Greek port of Salonika, Virginio Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini stated today.

"The tortuous denial by Athens of our previous revelation of the arrival of new British forces at Salonika is worthless," Gayda wrote.

Gayda first reported that British forces had arrived at Salonika on Monday.—Editor's note.

"It is a fact," Gayda continued, "that a whole Canadian division already has almost completely landed at Salonika.

"This division has been followed by numerous other detachments and arms already sent from England to Greece."

County Employees Civil Service Urged

Perennial critic of the Civil Service Commission, Miss Marian C. Nichols, of Beacon Hill, today found herself in agreement with Civil Service Commr. Ulysses S. Lupien in advocating that county employes be placed under civil service regulations.

Both approved a bill to place county employes, who have been working for six months prior to January, 1942, under civil service regulations in a hearing before the legislative committee on civil service at the State House.

Former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly, sponsor of the measure, told the committee:

"You owe a duty to the public to place county employes under civil service in order to prevent any future job selling scandals. If it is sound for city, town and state governments to have employes under civil service it is certainly sound for counties to do likewise.

DUPRIS FIGHTS BILL

"The expenses of all are paid by the same taxpayers and these county employes are entitled to the security of civil service."

Lupien in aligning himself with Miss Nichols and Kelly said that he suggested one change in the petition to provide for examinations for county employes.

Sheriff Patrick Dupris of Bristol County, representing the Sheriffs Ass'n of Massachusetts, opposed the bill on the ground county employes did not want to come under civil service.

The committee asked Kelly to return to the witnes stand when Dupris completed his testimony to ask if he thought the sheriff's statement true.

KELLY REPLIES

Kelly replied:

"The surest way for this committee to find out is to send a questionnaire guaranteeing anonymity to county employes. I am sure 99 out of every 100 will be for the bill."

Broad revision of the state law controlling preparation of city budgets was backed by the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Ass'ns as one of the most important municipal finance measures in years.

The petition was filed with the legislative committee on municipal finance by the Federation as a result of the Supreme Court decision last year invalidating the Cambridge budget.

Thomas M. Joyce, assistant executive director of the Federation, told the committee that the measure sets up the detail in which department heads must submit their estimates while setting a time limit on Dec. 15 for filing.

Improvement of jail conditions, elimination of repeaters and reductions in crime costs and causes were pictured as pressing needs by advocates of a special commission to study crime in Massachusetts.

Co-sponsors of the measure, Rep. Leslie B. Cutter of Needham, and Sent. Jarvis Hunt of North Attleboro, told the legislative committee on public welfare that some lock ups were:

"Fire traps and pretty rotten places."

The Massachusetts Civic League supported the bill.

A pair of Melrose youngsters stole the show at a public hearing before the legislature's conservation committee on proposals to make the chickadee the state bird and the American elm the state tree.

Barbara Mitchell, 11, argued that the chickadee should be chosen because "he is so common that every man, woman and child in the state can know him," and illustrated her point by imitating the bird's song.

John Jriecci, 10, urged choice of the elm, declaring that it would help save it from extenction.

MORE SHIPS, MEN IS PLEA TO COMMONS

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told Commons today Britain needs 'many more ships and great numbers of men" to fight the triple German menace of submarines, and long-range inombers and surface raiders in "the battle of the Atlantic now opening."

But to a member's question as to whether Britain had "told America what we require even more urgently than airplanes and money is ships and still more ships" he was silent.

The 50 American destroyers transferred to the British navy last year have already done good work, he told the House.

Alexander made his remarks in asking for a token appropriation of £100 (about $400). The House agreed without a record vote.

Although this would be the amount of the appropriation bill, it authorizes the admiralty to spend huge sums, the exact amount of which would be kept secret.

"Never in the history of our sea power have we had such need of hundreds of ships and men," Alexander said.

"To reinforce the fleet I ask unhesitatingly for many more ships, for greater numbers of men and for great quantities of stores to equip them.

"In facing the battle of the Atlantic now opening, we need every ounce of our workers' energy and ever increasing production."

He assured Commons that "the great body of the fleet of August, 1939, remains intact" and said ships coming into service in 1941 "would of themselves make up a formidable force judged by almost any other naval power's standards."

He warned, however, that by gaining French bases the German submarines are now close to their Atlantic hunting grounds and German aircraft "are enabled to prey upon our convoys far out at sea."

3 Girls, 2 Hub Men Die in Ayer Crash

ago and had been taped by a doctor.

Young Ribneck's driving license was found in his shredded clothing after some time had passed, during which it was necessary to jack up one of the buses to extricate the bodies.

Cincotta, who had originally borrowed the death car, furnished the information that led to the Pelletier boy's name being added to the list.

11 SOLDIERS HURT

There were 33 soldiers in one bus and 22 in the other, all members of regular Army units which had arrived in this area recently.

While none was seriously injured, 11 of the soldiers, including one lieutenant, were treated for cuts and bruises of varying degrees. The men had been at Lowell on leave for the evening.

The crash occured on Route 110, about a half mile from Route 2 leading through Ayer.

The victims, bound back to Boston from Ayer, were all taken from the wrecked auto, beneath the bus after it had been dragged 150 feet.

The top of the machine was shorn off with the crash as the terrific impact jammed the chasis beneath the bus.

After a license plate was located, it was discovered the wrecked machine was registered to Andrew Duchuck of Allen st., West End. Check by Boston police revealed Duchuck at home. He said he had loaned his machine to friends.

One of the friends he named as Cincotta, and for the time being, police thougnt he was one of the dead.

It was only when reporters went to his home that it was discovered the youth was safe in his bed.

"I borrowed the car and was going along, all right," Cincotta told police, "but I asked the other fellows to stop at my house for a few minutes while I changed my clothing.

"I was in overalls at the time. They promised to wait, but when I came out they were gone. It was around 7 o'clock last night."

The youth was so concerned about the fate of his friends he ignored the fact that he might have been among the dead himself.

Ayer police forwarded to Boston the information of the two rings and Cincotta, who thought the Stolach sisters were in the party, broke the tragic news to the girls' family. The mother immediately recognized the jewelry.

POLICE RUSH TO SCENE

The first bus was operated by Ralph W. Beattie of Foster st., Lowell. It was this bus with which the racing motor car first collided, careening off to meet head-on a bus following 200 feet in the rear.

Norman L. Edwards of Fourth st., Graniteville, was operating the second bus.

Police calls brought State Troopers Michael Shea, Sam Beattie and John Carroll to the scene, along with officers and ambulances from Ft. Devens.

At the West End home of Pelletier, the youth's father said he knew that his son had planned to go visiting at Camp Devens.

"I pleaded with him not to go because it was such bad driving," the father said. "But he said he had made the date and had to go."

Thailand Pact Seen Near

TOKYO, March 5 (AP)—Japan's efforts to arrange a peace settlement between French Indo-China and Thailand still were short of success tonight, but it was indicated that only technical details remained to be worked out.

It was said the French still had not accepted in full the settlement plan offered by Japan as mediator, although Charles Arsene Henry, French ambassador, visited the foreign office today for further discussion of details.

He failed to see Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who was said to have insisted on a "final" French answer.

A dispatch from Tokyo to London, International News Service reported, said France has decided to comply with Japan's proposals for settlement of the Thailand dispute. Hongkong reported that the British-owned China Mail said today that approximately 50 Japanese warships passed Hongkong last Sunday headed south toward Hainan Island, across the Gulf of Tonkin from northern French Indo-China.—Editor's note.

Held in Killing Of Mother of 5

John E. Flynn, 25, of Walnut st., Chelsea, was held for the grand jury without bail today in Chelsea court after a hearing on charges of murder and possessing a revolver whose numbers had been disfigured.

The defendant pleaded not guilty to both charges, growing out of the revolver death, last Feb 24, of Mrs. Edith Rossetti, 37, of Williams st., Chelsea, mother of five children.

Police read to Judge Roscoe D. Walsworth a statement which they said had been made by Flynn after he was trapped on a Chelsea roof top to which he had fled.

In this statement, Flynn allegedly said first that Mrs. Rossetti had talked of killing herself; then he said there had been a suicide pact, and finally he said he was in the basement when he heard two shots upstairs, and ran up to find her dead.

Y' Can't Stop Men Fightin'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Distributed by International News Service

I've been looking back through 20 Aprils and discovered that I did some pretty good predicting during that month. I'll give you three quickies:

April, 1936—"Three cigarettes on one match and two worlds on one piece of punk."

April, 1922—"I guarantee there will be no war until the next Democratic Administration."

April, 1921—"If the Japs take the Philippines away from us we'll take California away from them."

That's going back further than ox-tail soup but every prediction works out like a long toe-nail in a short pair of sox.

That sounds like accurate guessing but it's all based on human nature. Man will always fight and the last one on earth will throw rocks at a looking-glass.

Some of our senators are none too happy over the prospects. Senator Wheeler likes disaster so much he has ordered it in all shades.

Now, I think it's all right for a Cato to holler wolf and an extra chorus for the pups. But I think that we have arrived at the crucial point where every man must fish, chop bait or go ashore.

Stephen Decatur said he would take his country right around the dial. And I don't know any place where a man can afford to tune out.

P. S.—I spoke over at Fort Dix Monday night and I want to say the talk of mothering the boys is bologa sliced the long way. There are 22,000 boys over there who are so tough every one could vote in my old Rufftown where the canary birds sang bass and the children played tiddly-winks with man-hole covers.

N. Y. Draft Board Member Accused Of Accepting Bribe

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Irving Schiller, 41-year-old Brooklyn real estate operator and draft board member, was charged today with having accepted $100 from a draftee in return for a promised deferment. It was the first case of its kind in the city.

Schiller was arrested after police said he accepted five marked $20 bills from Fred Schwartzstein, 24, the registrant. Police said Schiller admitted taking the money.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, or $10,000 fine, or both.

LAUGHING, lovely Geraldine Fitzgerald is co-starred with Boston's own Jeffrey Lynn in "Flight from Destiny," the new Warner production coming to the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow.

'Star No Greater Than His Role,' Says Thomas Mitchell

Most acting, including his own, bores Thomas Mitchell . . . not on the sound stage, but in the theater. For that reason the star of "Flight From Destiny," which comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow, never goes to premieres if he can avoid them . . . and that includes his own pictures.

No player takes the profession more seriously than Mitchell, however . . . and none is more modest about it. The key to his modesty may be found in one of his favorite dicta on the subject.

"Great parts make great actors, to my way of thinking. A stereotyped role will keep any actor down to a mediocre level, just as a great part makes him surpass the best he thought he was capable of giving."

He has definite ideas about the values of scenes and what can be done with them. Although he's directed many stage plays and knows motion pictures direction as well as many directors, he never has been heard to argue with a director.

Most remarkable thing about Mitchell is his power of concentration. He can study a part in a car on the way to work or on a crowded set.

His ability to "insulate" himself mentally is a hangover from his newspaper days . . . a trick he learned when he was a young reporter in Newark, New York and Washington.

"Anyone who can concentrate where presses run, telegraph sounders click, typewriters bang, telephones jangle and copy boys carry on wrestling matches behind one's chair has to learn to concentrate or get out of the business," Mitchell says.

He can quote you more Shakespeare than any man in Hollywood except perhaps Raoul Walsh. Both did years in Shakespearian repertoire when they were youngsters. Mitchell worked with the famous Coburn players and Walsh with Robert B. Mantell, "the last of the royal line of great tragedians."

On the same bill with "Flight From Destiny," Paramount and Fenway screens will show "The Great Mr. Nobody," a comedy featuring Eddie Albert with Alan Hale, Joan Leslie, William Lundigan and John Litel. Ben Stoloff directed for Warner Brothers.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted Filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

Special Showing For 'Fantasia'

All students and children under 14 years of age may now see Walt Disney's revolutionary feature production, "Fantasia," at half-prices at all performances, including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Starting Saturday, an extra performance at 10:30 will be presented every Saturday morning for the duration of the engagement for the convenience of adults and children alike. Regular week-day matinee prices will prevail for this special extra performance.

"Fantasia" is considered by those who have seen it to be as great a milestone in motion picture entertainment as the coming of sound. It makes music often called the universal language, more universal than ever, for it translates into pictures some of the musical masterpieces of all time.

The vivid and fascinating interpretation which Disney gives such works as Beethoven's Sixth Symphony, Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite," Schubert's "Ave Maria" and others is something which people of all nationalities can understand, appreciate and enjoy.

Two performances of "Fantasia" are presented daily at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m., with an additional performance at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday. All seats are reserved, with mail orders being promptly filled and reservations made at Filene's and Jordan's.

SHE WINS CRITICS' ACCLAIM

THE NEW YORK CRITICS are ecstatic about Barbara Stanwyck's peinance in "The Lady Eve," which you'll be seeing in another week at the Metropolitan Theater.

New Scollay, Modern Bill

"Flight Command," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular romantic drama posed against a background of America's fighting ships of the air, will have its first in-town showing on Friday at the Modern Theater.

With "The Mad Doctor," a genuinely exciting picture starring Basil Rathbone, Ellen Drew, John Howard, Barbara Allen and Ralph Morgan, it will be shown also on the Scollay screen.

Ever since it gave the world its memorable production, "Hell Divers," Metro studio has sought a drama equally thrilling and romantic, with a navy armada background.

"Flight Command" is the answer.

"The Mad Doctor" tells the story of a killer who thought that he could not be touched by love. He was the villain who took the complexes away from beautiful women and at the same time relieved them of their cash and sometimes their lives.

RUTH HUSSEY in "Flight Command," which comes to the Scollay and Modern screens on Friday.

Boyer's Wife Aids Film Fame

No small modicum of credit for his success is given by Charles Boyer to his wife, the former Pat Paterson, stage and screen star.

Even today, at the peak of his success, Charles admits that his wife still aids him in his work.

Educated in France and for years the idol of the Parisian stage, Boyer came to America to play French language versions of early American talking pictures. Within six months he had mastered the English language sufficiently to enable him to star in American pictures.

This hasty manner of learning the language resulted in certain speaking irregularities—and it is in the changing of these that his wife is a help.

When Charles receives a script of one of the pictures in which he is to star, he and his wife sometimes go over it together. She often reads the other actors' speeches to Charles—and then corrects the pronunciation, emphasis and inflection of his own whenever she finds them faulty.

Being a former actress she has a judgment of dramatic reading which enables her to prompt her husband in the correct manner of delivering the speeches.

Boyer, currently starred with Margaret Sullavan in Universal's "Back Street," frequently takes his scenario home with him, and the couple go over the scenes for the coming day, refreshing his memory. As a result, Boyer rarely ever "blows" a line through forgetfulness or improper delivery.

'Happiest Man' Wins Approval

First motion picture ever to receive the official endorsement of the Book of the Month Club is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Happiest Man On Earth," which is the film industry's first short subject to be adapted literally from a short story.

"Happiest Man On Earth" is a picturization of the Albert Maltz story which won the O. Henry Memorial Award in 1938. It is little more than a conversation between two men; one so desperately in need of work that he would be grateful for the chance to drive a nitroglycerine truck; the other—his brother-in-law—with the job to offer, but terribly aware that it kills one man out of five each year.

'Chad Hanna' Stays On Bowdoin Screen

"Chad Hanna," 20th Century-Fox story of the tent folk co-starring Henry Fonda, Linda Darnell and Dorothy Lamour, and "The Invisible Woman," with John Barrymore, Virginia Bruce, John Howard and Oscar Homolka, continue through Friday on Bowdoin screen.

On Thursday, March 20, it will give its seventh concert in Sanders Theater, Cambridge.

'Here Is Ireland' Held Over

Pat Stanton's beautiful all-color film, "Here Is Ireland," is being held for a ninth week at the Fine Arts Theater, terminating its run next Tuesday, to make way for this season's new pictures.

This natural color travelogue of the beautiful Emerald Isle covers 3000 miles. Pat Stanton, it seems, has stopped at every village and square, every legendary lake or mountain and before the tombstones of half the Irish heroes.

He has also photographed the lakes of Killarney, in all their natural beauty, Irish machine-gun and tank corps, and bag pipe bands. It will fill your hearts to see Ireland's churches, its famed old universities, and its native industries.

Also on the same program will be Walt Disney's, Donald Cartoon—"Donald's Vacation."

Tyrone Power Given Important New Role

Reginald Gardner has been assigned an important role in "A Yank in the R. A. F.," which will star Tyrone Power, and Jane Darwell, who won the best-character - actress - performance Academy Award for 1940, has been given a featured role in "Private Nurse," according to announcement from Twentieth Century-Fox studios.

'THE SON OF MONTE CRISTO' AND 'PLAY GIRL' HELD OVER AT KEITH MEMORIAL

Romantic Film Scores Big Hit

The combination of adventure, action and romance struck such a responsive note with the public that the Keith Memorial management announce a holdover.

The entire screen show, consisting of United Artists' super production, "The Son of Monte Cristo," starring Joan Bennett, Louis Hayward and George Sanders, and "Play Girl," featuring Kay Francis and James Ellison plus the latest issue of the March of Time, "Americans All," will continue through the week.

"The Son of Monte Cristo" presents Louis Hayward in the title role, playing a dare-devil, romantic, audacious character with grace and verve; Joan Bennett is seen as the lovely and alluring Grand Duchess Zona, who is held captive in the mythical principality of Lichtenburg by its villainous and unscrupulous dictator, played by George Sanders.

Also chalking up a perfect score for the film are its beautiful costuming and settings and unusual lighting effects.

"Play Girl" shows Kay Francis as a glamorous fortune hunter who lives by her wits and successful breach of promise suits. She grooms a young girl in the gentle art of fleecing wealthy playboys.

Mildred Coles is cast as the reluctant partner and James Ellison a cattle baron's son.

GEORGE SANDERS is villainous and Joan Bennett, lovely, in "The Son of Monte Cristo," held over at Keith-Memorial.

No longer do our public servants shake visitors' hands and say, "Mighty glad to see you."

Today our patrolmen and particularly our "rookie cops" are too busy hanging overtime parking tags on automobiles to have much time for such a prosperity-promoting gesture as courtesy.

So what happens?

Simply this: Persons who come here in automobiles to conduct business, shop in our stores or patronize our hotels and restaurants usually drive their cars to garages or open-air parking lots.

In these places motorists are frequently obliged to pay sums that compare most unfavorably with rates charged for similar services in many other large cities.

For instance, in Miami, Fla., a motorist may park his car for five cents an hour and in Los Angeles, Calif., for ten cents.

Here, the fee is more apt to be twenty-five cents an hour or seventy-five cents for all day.

One might almost think the police department had left the municipal payroll and gone to work for the operators of garages and open-air parking lots.

Of course, the department has not, but it could hardly serve the interests of the garage and parking lot men more effectively if it had.

What we need and must have is FIVE AND TEN CENTS AN HOUR PARKING.

The city owns much land which it has seized because owners have failed to pay taxes.

This land can be converted into parking lots that will yield thousands of dollars annually in revenue for the municipal treasury.

It is also within the power of the city to erect open-air or ramp garages on accessible sites in the downtown area for the convenience of shoppers and theater and restaurant patrons.

A visit to Boston can and ought to be a PLEASURE, not a NIGHTMARE.

A HEALTHY BABY is the hope of every mother. Nothing to her can be more horrible than the knowledge that her little son or daughter is doomed to go through life mentally and physically handicapped.

For this reason, the contents of a bill filed recently in the Legislature by Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler, State Representative from Needham, will appeal powerfully to most women.

Mrs. Cutler asks her fellow law-makers to provide for medical examinations for all persons contemplating matrimony in this Commonwealth.

She states her case interestingly in this manner:

"My bill requires that a certificate signed by the physician making the examination shall be filed by each applicant with the clerk or registrar when the applicant gives notice of his intention to marry.

"The certificate simply states that the physician has made a physical examination.

"Of course, the bill does not prevent marriage, but it does protect both applicants for a marriage license.

"The purpose of the law is the protection of marital and childhood health."

Such legislation is not new; twenty other States, including New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Hampshire, have similar laws.

A HEALTHY, INTELLIGENT BABY
Let Us Give All Children the Same Right Start in Life.

There is no reason why Massachusetts should be less concerned with the health and well-being of the unborn.

The only possible criticism of Mrs. Cutler's bill is that it does not go far enough.

Better, perhaps, would be a statute making pre-marital blood tests COMPULSORY.

This would probably induce infected persons to obtain medical treatment more promptly and to escape the terrible penalties of ignorance and neglect.

JOHN BARRYMORE IN RECENT FILM
His Acting Has Lost Something, Durling Thinks

WHAT "trifling thing" have you saved? Though I claim to be as sentimental as most people I am not much of a trifling thing saver. I have saved no faded flowers or broken rings. And as my girl friend is a brunette I certainly have saved no tresses of golden hair. However, I have saved a French coin, a ten-franc piece, because on it is inscribed "Libertie, Egalitie, Fraternitie." Just a memory, but I still feel the next time I see Paris it will again be a reality.

QUERIES: Q—Who originated that soda fountain concoction called a Banana Split? A—You have me there, sir. However, George Hallauer of Two Rivers, Wis., the originator of the ice cream sundae, is probably partially responsible. Q—Have you ever played that card game Casino? A—Yes, indeed, but shouldn't it be spelled Cassino. Q—Does it ever occur to you some people will not like you because of the things you say? A—You find that out, sir, the morning after the first day you start to write a column. And from then on you have to make the best of it.

PLEASE NOTE: Discussing actors and acting, Frank Morgan recently said: "John Barrymore has thrown away something that God gave him." Anyone who has seen John Barrymore's recent films and can remember him on the stage in "The Jest," "Justice," and "Peter Ibbetson," will be inclined to agree with Mr. Morgan. Spencer Tracy, once a fine actor, also has become careless. Nowadays no matter what he plays he is always Spencer Tracy . . . Say two persons are in an automobile speeding along the highway; one awake and one asleep. In case of an accident the one who is awake will suffer the most serious injury. The sleeping rider being relaxed will, because of that state, suffer the least. Football players who are "relaxed" rarely suffer seriously injury. The tense type is always having some of his bones broken. Study relaxation.

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—The trip to New York City yesterday was quiet and uneventful. I managed to choose an Easter dress, to buy my niece a wedding present, and finally to go to a meeting of the Art for China Committee, where some little children from Chinatown were waiting to be photographed with me.

One little girl presented me with some tea, and we had much the same kind of conversation one would have had with children ranging from seven to thirteen, no matter what their nationality. These little ones had on their native Chinese costumes, but their feet and legs showed distinctly that their home was in the United States.

Good, stout, heavy low shoes and woolen stockings, which reached up to the knees, reminded me of my own youngsters.

When a young lady held a seven-year-old boy up to present me with a poster of the exhibition, he showed very clearly in his own person the combination of the East and the West so far as clothes were concerned.

I SPENT a gay evening dining in a little restaurant with some friends and then saw one of the most popular plays in New York city, called "Arsenic and Old Lace." I liked Miss Josephine Hull's acting in the part of the sweet and charming and slightly mad old lady murderess, as much as I did when she was the unruffled and eccentric mother in "You Can't Take It With You."

In fact, I thought all the parts were well acted. I enjoyed the play, though I will confess I thought the murders were a little too numerous in spots. I began to wonder if I could laugh any longer at what, after all, is a rather sad and tragic subject.

This morning, Countess Alexandra Tolstoy climbed up three flights of stairs to my apartment to tell me something of the plight of some of her Russian refugees in the south of France. She has promised to write me a little more about the whole situation, so you probably have not heard the last of another sad tale.

THIS MORNING also I attended the meeting of the joint Distribution Committee and the National Child Refugee Service Committee. They are opening their campaign and making a united drive for funds.

I must say that from the number of people who attended this morning, I feel sure they will not lack workers. This group has done a wonderful piece of work abroad in making assistance available in places where it is most difficult for anyone to work today.

At the same time, they make sure that no refugee landing on our shores becomes a public charge.

I flew down to Washington at 1 o'clock and arrived in time to do a number of things.

I am very grateful to the weather man, because if I had had to take a train, I certainly would have had to leave a great many things undone.

The Campbell Girl

"George, please take these off. I promise I won't go in your pants pockets again."

ARTIE SHAW SIGNS NEW CONTRACT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 5—Artie Shaw has signed a new contract which permits him to go wherever he wants to in search of new music, and then bring either the vocalist or instrumentalist back to New York to make recordings . . . BILL BULLITT: Erskine Gwynne, whom you knew in Par's, returned here last week. Gwynne, who had suffered a paralytic stroke there two years ago, now reasons that his ailment was providential. "Because if I had been able to talk in Paris," he explained, "I'd have been shot . . . HENRY FORD: "The Iron Duke," the bomb-scarred mobile tea kitchen which was brought to this country a few days ago as a fund-raising exhibit, actually is a custom-built four-cylinder Ford truck. The new orders for 275 mobile tea canteens went to General Motors . . . WARDEN LAWES: By the end of March, Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz will have handed out a record number of aggregate years of sentence, for criminals, during one month. This is the same Sam Leibowitz who was the foremost criminal lawyer in the country.

HELEN CRAIG

* * *

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN: Do you plan to take David Schenker of the Securities and Exchange Commission with you to London, as your counselor? . . . PARAMOUNT: Martha Gellhorn, who is touring the Orient with her husband, Ernest Hemingway, is arranging for the sale of the movie rights to her novel . . . LORD HALIFAX: The only thing which worried Ben Cohen, before he flew to England with Ambassador Winant, was the problem of getting enough cigarettes and chocolate. That's h's steady diet . . . HELEN CRAIG: The continued success of your "Johnny Belinda," in which you portray a deaf mute, is holding up the production of a play written by John Fante—about a person who is deaf. He wrote it long before "Johnny Belinda" opened on Broadway, but doesn't want to be considered an imitator.

* * *

EQUITY: Lionel Stander is arranging a production which is expected to feature Duke Ellington and Paul Robeson . . . DRAMATISTS GUILD: Sidney Kingsley was half-way through his new play, about Jefferson and the sacrifices in behalf of America, when he was drafted into the Army. The Pulitzer Prize winner sacrificed his new play and reported for service . . . PAUL DRAPER: Larry Adler, the harmonica player with whom you planned to do a concert tour, has been invited to play with the Rochester Symphony Orchestra . . . JUDGE IRVING LEHMAN: Four judges sat at one table in Lindy's Saturday night—Supreme Court Justices Pecora, Church and Collins and General Sessions Judge Jonah Goldstein . . . "What have four judges in common to talk about?" the jurists were asked . . . "For one thing," replied Pecora, "—how to buy robes, wholesale."

* * *

NEYSA McMEIN: At Fanny Brice's home last week, Somerset Maugham and Aldous Huxley participated in playing "The Game," which you introduced some years ago. Maugham's team was assigned by Harry Kurnitz to act out the title, "The Artistic Aspirations of Philip Carey." Maugham failed to identify it for almost 20 minutes . . . "The Artistic Aspirations of Philip Carey" was the original title of a book written by Somerset Maugham. Before the novel was published, however, he decided to change the title, and did—to "Of Human Bondage."

* * *

TALLULAH BANKHEAD: Arthur Kober, one of the backers of "The Little Foxes," will go to Hollywood to work on the movie adaptation. His ex-wife, Lillian Hellman, wrote the hit play from which the adaptation will be made . . . WILLIAM GREEN: When the National Mediation Board is set up, it will include William Davis, who was chairman of the State Mediation Board here . . . MAYOR FRANK HAGUE: Is it true that you are buying a bay-front home in Miami? . . . FRITZ WIEDEMANN: A former U-boat commander will be enjoined, by the SEC, from using the mails for the sale and distribution of German bonds . . . GERTRUDE LAWRENCE: Your two leading men in "Lady in the Dark"—Victor Mature and Macdonald Carey—are eligible for conscription. They've made a pact that when either of them is called for service, the other will pay him $10 each week, until he too shall be drafted.

TOO LITTLE ATTENTION has been paid a daring experiment being carried on at Arthur L. Race's noted Copley Plaza Hotel . . . In the oval-shaped main dining-room, as fashionable an eating place as we have in town, the effort is being made to write off part of the cost of a show imposing a cover charge . . . (Shades of the late Charles "King" Solomon.)

THE COVER, OR "COUVERT," as it is called at the Plaza, obtains only while the supper show is in progress . . . Those who come in for dinner are not taxed above the price of their edibles and liquors, and they are permitted to linger quite without a head tax until an hour at which the supper-show "rush" is supposed to begin.

IN THE INTEREST of the record, it should be reported here and now that there has been no supper-show "rush," at least not a headlong one . . . Yet the dinner-show—minus "couvert"—staged by Gladys Lamb and Rube Yokum, a pair of fine skaters, is attracting hundreds of onlookers Fridays and Saturdays, and enough paying guests to make the show profitable, are in attendance throughout the week.

THE "COUVERT" came IN DISREPUTE in the days of prohibition . . . The lamented Texas Guinan first had the hardihood to put the system into effect . . . At Texas' old El Fay Club, (a Spanish-sounding combination derived from a combination of the initials of the fabulous Larry Fay, who was Miss Guinan's first entrepreneur,) the "couvert" was nothing meagre.

"FIVE BUCKS A COPY" (as the Prohibition Era slang had it) was the charge.

BOSTON FELL INTO LINE, and The Cocoanut Grove, (which was then managed by the Mr. "King" Solomon whose shades we invoked in the first paragraph) kept Boston in the big time with a parade of the biggest names in the cabaret circuit.

THE "COUVERT" AT THE GROVE never approached the dimensions of the levy slapped against the wide-eyed gentlefolk whom gentle Texas habitually greeted with "Hello, Sucker!" . . . Occasionally, it reached a $2 level, but generally a single simoleon was enough to pay the entrance fee for one person.

BOSTON NIGHTCLUBS employed another device that of charging for "corkage" . . . If you brought your own (liquor), and the pretense at the time was that you had to bring your own, a charge of $1.00 was placed against the ingredients known as a "set-up" . . . As a "set-up" consisted of a four-cents bottle of fizz-water or ginger ale, some ice and a glass, the profit was not inconsiderable.

WE ARE GOING TO THIS LENGTH along a historical detour, because we thought you would be pleased to know that the "cover charge" notion is not here to stay, apparently.

QUITE THE CONVERSE is true of lovely little Janet Carroll, the prima donna of Lou Walters' Latin Quarter . . . She may be with us forever . . . Mr. Walters was in town last night, home for a few days from Miami . . .

JANET CARROLL

Begins Her Third Year at Latin Quarter

In two breaths he made announcements he was willing to see in print: (a) Miss Carroll will begin her third year of Latin Quarter service at the Silver Beach Latin Quarter this summer; (b) the Ice Revue at the Copley Plaza may move to the Latin Quarter at Palm Island, Miami Beach, for a spring engagement.

FLORIDA NEVER had an ice show . . . No more has it (before this year) had a Lou Walters . . . In one season, the showmanly Bostonian has taken a permanent place in the scheme of tropical nightlife, and he (as a manager) and Milton Berle (as a comedian) are the outstanding successes of the Season 1940-41.

Hollywood Today

HE WAS HER FIRST SCREEN IDOL

By Louella O. Parsons

Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD, March 5—Head and shoulders above all best sellers of 15 years ago was Margaret Kennedy's "The Constant Nymph." It started a new school in writing and while some people thought it naughty, it was beautifully written. Later, as a stage play and a British motion picture, it continued to attract attention—with almost every American company bidding for the rights.

Warners bought it—and while they've owned it for some years Hal Wallis never made any attempt to film it. Now it will actually reach the screen with Errol Flynn and little Joan Leslie as soon as "Dive Bomber" is completed.

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN

There is quite a human interest story in Joan Leslie playing opposite Errol. When she first visited the Warner lot as Joan Brodell she obtained Errol's autograph and was thrilled to death.

Now the little girl who has been playing opposite Gary Cooper, in "Sergeant Alvin York" will make screen love to her first movie idol.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Kay Harris, the "Tillie the Toiler" Cinderella, seeing Hollywood with Jack Clark, manager of the Hollywood Plaza Hotel; Lillian Roth—the broken-jaw gal—and Howard Burke, night clubbing at Charlie Foy's supper club; Maureen O'Sullivan has gone to Dallas for the British Relief show, which is a complete sell-out, according to my newspaper friends there.

Grace Moore's Hollywood friends will be happy to learn that her husband, Valentin Parera, is recuperating at Saranac, where he has been desperately ill. Val is very well liked here and was an enormous help to Grace in her operatic career.

Was that Richard Hayden, radio actor, with Rosemary Lane? The Ralph Blums (Carmel Myers) are celebrating Michele Morgan's twenty-first birthday on Saturday with a party; Dorothy Di Frasso's house guest, Mrs. Barclay Douglas, entertaining for Dorothy the same night and there is the diamond horseshoe ball at the Mocambo, so all in all, social Hollywood will be very busy.

Ethel Butterworth is so proud of her 11-weeks-old adopted baby she carries his picture with her.

* * *

A LONG DISTANCE telephone from Monterey from Lieutenant Kraft, brought some special news. He says that Private Everett L. Scott, who owned "Laddie," the little dog whose death touched the hearts of millions, is coming to Hollywood Thursday.

"Private Scott," says Kraft, "has been polishing his boots for two weeks to get ready."

You can well imagine he is the most excited rookie at Camp Ord today. When it seemed as if Laddie might live Universal offered both the little dog and his master a contract and Scott naturally thought after the death of his pet Hollywood had forgotten.

Well, Hollywood isn't as cold as some people think and Universal not only made arrangements for Private Scott's leave, but he will be the guest of honor at a luncheon with Deanna Durbin. More important, she is giving him a new airedale pup to take back to Camp Ord as a mascot.

* * *

ALICE FAYE'S three months' vacation will bring her back to one of her most interesting assignments. Darryl Zanuck has closed a deal with Theodore Dreiser, famed novelist, for an original story, "My Gal Sal," based on the famous song and of course it is obviously meant for Alice.

There is an interesting story back of "My Gal Sal." It was written by Dreiser's brother, Paul Dresser, who also wrote "On the Banks of the Wabash" before he died.

Dresser, who changed his name from Dreiser, was also a musical comedy favorite and Dreiser has actually written the story of his life in "My Gal Sal," which will be filmed in technicolor.

* * *

ROLAND DREW, one of my favorite gin rummy players, has just signed a contract with Warners and if he's half as good in their pictures as he is drawing sets of threes to beat me—he'll be as big a star as he ever was. His first will be "Underground," the spy story Vincent Sherman is directing. It will be good seeing him on the screen again for he's a swell actor.

THE broad shoulders of Gordon Kendall in the rolling chair next to her own almost blotted out Sue's view of the waves. That was a pity, too, because they were very special Atlantic City waves dancing in the Atlantic City sunlight.

What was even more of a pity, though, was that those shoulders darted out from Sue's mind the pictures of Lee Hale. She was wearing Lee's solitaire.

"Pretty pigeon," Kendall was saying. "Come to New York, pretty pigeon. Let me show you the sights."

Pretty pigeon! Sue blinked, then smiled. Back home nobody — not even the visiting song-pluggers — ever dared call her that. Back home she was the business-like Sue Wallace, program director of the local station. She did have a position, after all — even if it happened to be hers only because all the higher-ups had left for better jobs in New York.

"Pretty pigeon," Kendall repeated, with relish. "Let me show you the city lights and wonders, the city of shadowy piers and tall dark buildings at night—the canyon of stillness that is Wall Street after dusk and the alley of swing music that is Fifty-Second Street. Sue, you still have one week of your vacation. Don't waste it here!"

She turned slowly and looked at him: sun-tanned, muscular, clear-eyed.

"You're trying mighty hard to persuade me, aren't you?" she asked.

"Persuading, lady," he grinned, "is the best thing I do."

"Fifty-Second Street," mused Sue. "Somehow it doesn't fit into the picture. You aren't the night-club type. Just what do you do in New York, Mr. Kendall?"

"EVEN SING"

"Gordon," he corrected. "And I'm surprised at you, Miss Wallace. I thought the boys over at the local station told you when they introduced us, the other day. I'm in radio. I do a lot of things. Why, I even sing."

He flipped his wrist in that quick gesture so characteristic of radio people. I sing—tenor, if you must know—in exactly six and a half minutes. Want to come along and listen?"

"Mr. Kendall," the girl smiled, "nothing would please me more."

The station was only a block away. Gordon deposited Sue in the control room and hurried up to the mike. The "On the Air" signal flashed. He darted her a reassurance glance. She leaned forward with more eagerness than she cared to admit.

"Oh, let him be good," she whispered to herself. "Let him be very good. I've heard so many tenors."

The bush-haired orchstra leader swung his baton. Gordon Kendall opened his nicely shaped lips. Sue Wallace drew a sharp breath. Out came the first note—and for the next two minutes she endured agony.

The Cast of Characters in "The World's Worst Tenor"

SUE WALLACE, radio program director, who, though engaged to LOU HALE, meets
GORDON KENDALL a terrible tenor, while on vacation in Atlantic City.

World's Worst Tenor

By Jeanette Smitz

Gordon sang "Rose of Tralee." He warbled. He caroled. He—burbled. He finished triumphantly, beaming with pleasure, his voice splintering on the jagged rocks of the final "eeee."

"Gosh," said Sue, faintly.

A few moments after the program ended, Kendall came to her side, seized both her hands in his and asked, confidently, "Well, Pigeon, what did you think of it?"

"I —," she gulped. "I—I never heard anything like it before!"

A uniformed page boy trotted up and proclaimed in measured tones which clearly indicated a suppressed desire to be an announcer:

"Mr. Kendall, you are wanted on the telephone. New York is calling. It is highly important."

"Saved!" murmured Sue, as her escort apologized and dashed away. "Saved by the bell!"

By the time he returned, she had succeeded in achieving what she had hoped was a congratulatory smile. But her effort was wasted. He was too excited to notice.

"Look, Pigeon," he cried. "Morgan at ABC has called me back to New York—pronto. Special engagement. Pack your bags like a good little girl. We're leaving in half an hour!"

Sue gazed at him for a long moment and then looked down at her engagement ring. The diamond had an accusing sparkle. She sighed. "No," she said gently. "I'm sorry, but you are leaving alone, I really can't—"

"Sue!"

She held out her hand. "Good-by—Mr. Kendall."

All the way back home the wheels of the train clicked: "Gordon Kendall! Pretty pigeon! Gordon Kendall; Pretty pigeon!"

"Sue," she remarked aloud, "you are a little clown!"

Just the same, she couldn't resist turning her ring around, hiding the diamond from view. After all, there had always been certain small but persistent doubts in her mind about Lee—doubts that she almost succeeded in banishing.

Walking into the studio, she braced herself for a barrage of questions about here premature return. However, when she opened the door marked "Station Manager," she found Lee Hale engrossed in a stack of letters and a tangle of busy telephones.

"Oh—hello," he said absently. "Say, do you mind taking off your hat and coat and helping me out? We've got a whale of a lot to do and not much time to do it."

"Why—why, Lee," Sue faltered. "Aren't you—aren't you surprised to see me?"

"Sure I am, kid," he said impatiently. "Sure. But never mind that now. We've got work to do. Today's my last day here, you know."

"WORK TO DO"

"What?" Sue's pocketbook clattered to the floor."

"Yep," said Hale. "Got a new job. Swell job. I'm hitting the Big Town at last. And boy, am I going places!"

She stared at him. "But Lee! You don't mean—you don't expect to go right away? Why, we're going to be married in a couple of weeks. In case," she paused and then, forcing a light tone, "in case you still want me."

He averted his eyes. "Well, you see, Sue, I—I thought maybe we'd better postpone the wedding for a while. After all, you're happy here, in this jerkwater place. You like it here. And maybe you wouldn't belong in New York."

"Oh," said Sue. "I see."

"Now, don't take it too hard," he said soothingly. "Maybe in a few years, when you're a little more sophisticated, and can fit in better with the society of the top-notchers in radio, I'll send for you and——"

"Please, Lee!" Her uplifted hand cut him short. "We can discuss that later. What is it you want me to do now?"

"A new manager's coming in tomorrow to take my place. Sent from the New York office, together with a tenor and a soprano. I want you to take care of the so-called talent. I'll glad-hand the manager."

Sue nodded. Her face was very white. She quietly slipped off the ring, laid it on his shiny-topped desk and walked out of the room.

Next morning, when she arrived, three strangers sat in the reception room. One was a faded woman of uncertain age. Obviously the soprano. The second was a distinguished-looking gentleman with a crest of bright silver hair. The third was—no, it couldn't be—

"Gordon Kendall!" she cried.

"Sue!"

His shoulders were even broader than she'd remembered. His eyes were twice as blue.

"Pigeon," he cried. "The canyons of Wall Street were empty without you, and Fifty-second st. was ghastly. I pulled every wire I could, so I could be with you. I couldn't live without—"

"Hush," she breathed. "Come into my office, where we can talk."

He followed obediently. Just as they reached the door, Sue remembered the silver-crested gentleman.

"Mr. Hale will see you in a moment," she said graciously, over her shoulder.

LOVE TRIUMPHS

In the privacy of her own office, she faced Kendall. "They — they told me you were coming," she stammered. "But I didn't know you would be you. That is, I didn't—"

He laughed, and came so close that for a breathless instant she thought he was going to take her in his arms. "My darling, you're going to be so proud of me, so proud!"

"So proud!" echoed Sue, and then gasped—remembering. "Rose of Tralee." "Gordon," she said slowly, "I'm afraid I—"

"Afraid?" He gave her a fond, radiant smile.

She snapped back her head, squared her slim shoulders. "Gordon, I'm afraid I'll have to give you an audition right away. We're pressed for time around here."

Kendall took a step backward. "Audition? What are you talking about."

"Why, the audition—to see how well you can sing. You can pick your own song. Even 'Rose of Tralee,' if you like—"

Suddenly, he unleashed a chuckle. The chuckle grew into a roar.

"It— it isn't funny," protested Sue.

"Funny? he choked. "It's the laugh riot of the year. It's the greatest comedy ever produced without a script."

"Gordon!"

With one sweeping gesture, he gathered her into his arms.

"Pigeon, years and years from now, when we're an old married couple sitting by the fireplace, remind me to remind you of the time you heard the world's worst tenor singing on an Atlantic City station—just as a gag—and loved him enough to offer him a job on your own station."

"But—but—but, Gordon, if you aren't a tenor, who are—"

He kissed her full of the lips.

"Meet the new station manager," he said.

THE END

"Hush!" she breathed —"come into my office where we can talk."

ONE OF THE loveliest of pre-Easter weddings will be that of blonde Nancy Sears of Chestnut Hill, who is to become the bride of Vinton Freedley, Jr., son of the well known New York theatrical producer, at a fashionable wedding in Weston, Saturday, April 5.

The ceremony in the First Parish Church at Weston will be followed by a reception at the Weston Country Club. Nancy and Vint have invited Jane Sears, sister of the future bride, and Richard Fay, to be maid of honor and best man, but their list of bridesmaids and ushers will not be complete for a day or two . . .

After the wedding the couple will live in the South, where, Vint, Jr., is working with a tobacco concern . . . He received his degree from Harvard last June, having been an outstanding undergraduate by virtue of playing varsity hockey and writing and directing Hasty Pudding shows . . . He prepared for college at St. Paul's . . .

Nancy is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Winslow Sears of Chestnut Hill, a popular post deb of the '37-38 season and a graduate of Beaver Country Day . . .

VINTON FREEDLEY, JR., of New York and Nancy Sears of Chestnut Hill will make their home in the South following their fashionable wedding in Weston, April 5. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Sears of Chestnut Hill. Vinton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Freedley of Pomfret, Ct.

She's Winner of Waltz Contest

FAITH KILLIAM received a lot of good-natured teasing and kidding when she arrived to do her daily stint of social service work at the Junior League today . . . for last evening she won the waltzing contest at the fifth of the season's Waltzing Evenings at the Somerset, and received her prize from none other than Stirling Hayden, the new Hollywood glamour boy . . . What's more, Faith stood beside Stirling and they beamed at each other while their pictures were being taken . . .

The prize was a bottle of champagne, which Faith and her escort, George W-Solovieff of Harvard, shared with a group of friends when they returned to their table . . . Faith was a very dainty and graceful waltzer in a full skirted gown of white tulle, frosted with tiny silver sequins, long white kid gloves and a gardenia in her hair . . . She and George made a striking couple, for she is as blonde as he is brunette . . .

The waltzing party was another huge success and seemed to have a larger attendance of older waltzers than usual . . . The Charles Sumner Birds came on from a small dinner in the Balinese Room with the Lawrence Fosters, Mrs. William Endicott and the Oliver Wolcotts . . . Mrs. Bird wore diamonds and pearls with her pale gray crepe gown, Mrs. Foster chose a slim pleated gown of ice blue satin, and Mrs. Wolcott was tall and distinguished in a striped taffeta . . . Mr. Bird, an ardent waltzer of the old school, dipped and swayed as he swung his partners from one end of the ballroom to the other . . . Next to Mrs. Bird his favorite dancing partner seems to be Mrs. William Endicott who follows his every lead very gracefully . . . Her full white tulle gown looked like a figure from a Degas painting.

And Among Others Present . . .

JEAN HALLADAY and Arthur Brooks shared a table with Anne Phillips and several other young people . . . Jean's lovely gown had a full silver lame skirt and a tight fitting long sleeved bodice of black velvet . . . Anne wore emerald green tulle appliqued with bands of green velvet . . . Among the many other waltzers swirling and gliding to the rhythmic strains of Harry Marshard's special string arrangements were Sandy Matz in coral faille and velvet, Cynthia Forbes in scarlet taffeta dancing with Jack Pierce, George Sommaripa chatting with Leslie Lindsey and Mary Otis, blonde Polly Keppler in turquoise lace and chiffon, debutante Elinor Peters in her debut gown of deep green velvet with an underskirt of pale green ruffles, Elizabeth Ware and Mr. and Mrs. Sohier Welch . . .

Bob Berenson To Wed Gogo Schiaparelli

Miss Marisa "Gogo" Schiaparelli, daughter of Madame Elsa Schiaparelli, noted Parisian designer, will be married Friday afternoon to Robert Lawrence Berenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Berenson of Boston.

The 3 o'clock ceremony will be performed at Hampshire House New York city, by Rev. Father S. Piccirillo, pastor of the Church of St. Vincent de Paul.

Miss Edith Clark of Grosvenor sq., London, a former English school friend of the bride-to-be, will be the maid of honor. William Gates of Boston will be best man. The large drawing room of Hampshire House will be converted into a small chapel decorated with a profusion of white flowers. The reception will take place there also.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda. The bride attended Abbotts Hill School, Hempstead, England. Mr. Berenson, who formerly lived at The Hague, was educated at Lawrence Academy, Groton, and the New Preparatory School, Cambridge. He is a member of the Racquet Club of Philadelphia and the Travelers' Club of Paris.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Wednesday, March 5, 1941

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are self-effacing, self-sacrificing, placid outwardly but often nervous inwardly. Dislike quarreling and pettiness. You are kindly, charitable—a peace-maker. Need sympathy and encouragement to help realize your full possibilities. Intuitive, intelligent, attractic. Keep your mental attitude on the sunny side of the street. Keep pace with the demands of your position but don't endanger your health by overstraining.

LUCKY NUMBER — Today's lucky number is 33.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is plum.

Send 15 cents and large self-addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston Evening American, Box 2228, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the first six months of 1941, giving the day and month you were born.

You Can Be Beautiful

Gorgeous Eyelashes

By ARLINE GOULD

A FLUTTER of long eyelashes has put over more romantic intrigue . . . than the curve of a lovely smile . . . it's turned the tide of empire . . . with the "empire" large as two continents or small as your own home town, with you the reigning empress because you have such beautiful eyes . . .

They tell of the pretty girl who lost one set of her false eyelashes on a ski slope and offered a reward for their return . . . but this is all a temporary and unreliable expedient at best! Tend yours with a very special eyebrow and eyelash pomade we've discovered . . . help them to grow so long they'll literally wave in the breeze . . . so glossy that they'll shine like a blackbird's wing . . .

If you've investigated the situation on eyelash-growth stimulators, you may have discovered that they are among the higher-priced numbers . . . but the one we've found happens to be only 55c . . . for a jar that will practically last forever . . . and it is part of a notable hair-specializing outfit . . . whose ointments have saved thinning hair lines and made them yield luxurious growths when the cause seemed lost.

In the pomade there is no coal tar by-product . . . no vaseline . . . but the purest, richest of herbal oils. If you use mascara at all, this is a must . . . to keep the fragile eyelashes from snapping and drying. Use it before applying mascara, and it will go on with extraordinary lustre . . . making your lashes a luxurious mat-like fringe that lends brilliance and depths . . . and starriness . . .

One thing more . . . if you use an eyelash curler . . . a touch of the pomade will make those devastating fringes curl upward much longer . . . you won't have to dash out into the powder room for a quick re-curl! And if you want them to look longer without using mascara . . . the ointment brushed outward with your fingertips works little beauty miracles!

For information on this marvelous eyelash pomade, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write in care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

California Pea • Red Kidney • Yellow Eye

THEY'RE YOUR OWN . . . to add a wicked provocativeness to your glance . . . thick, glossy fringes of eyelashes . . . naturally as long as Michele Morgan's . . . if you groom them . . . and encourage luxurious growth with the wonderfully efficacious special pomade Arline Gould discovered . . . and describes today . . . to help make your flowery spring hat look twice as devastating!

Yes, They're Natural!

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

A DOCTOR has written a book. Frankly doctors' books are not my favorite treat. There's something terribly demoralizing about the average medico's broadcast. You may have suspected beforehand that you're not so hot, either here or hereafter, but you've tried to duck the issue.

Then along comes Ye Scientist and not only confirms your worst suspicions, but rolls right over you with his six-bit words and 16-cylinder cynicism. All you mean to that lad is a Perfectly Dandy Case of Multiple Tumor.

But not so to Dr. James T. Nix who, despite a full time career in surgery, believes firmly that fighting faith is greater than any medical formula and may survive triumphantly even the sickest flesh . . . even that final deliverance we call death. Which assurance leaves you feeling pretty swell, even if you still have that ingrowing toenail.

DR. NIX'S BOOK is no made pretty palavar by an optimistic amateur. No man has ever faced grim reality more frankly or frequently.

He is clinical professor of surgery in the Louisiana State University of Medicine and founder and head of the J. T. Nix Clinic. He has also served as director of the Oscar Allen Tumor Clinic, Dean of the Graduate School of Medicine, Louisiana State University and medical advisor of the Catholic Hospital Association of America.

Besides being a first lieutenant in World War One, which should make him take life on the down beat, if anything could. But there's no down beat in his small but uplifting book, "A SURGEON REFLECTS" (Louisiana State University Press, Publishers.)

HERE is a candid discusion of disease, the causes and possible cures of disease from the scientific viewpoint. But here is also an indomitable belief that life is greater and infinitely more lasting than death . . . that fighting faith is far more powerful than fragile flesh and can produce mysteries and marvels beyond the scope of any human medicine.

We need this book these days. We are bewildered and bedeviled by fake philosophy and materialistic codes. Our hearts are homesick for hope. The fog of doubt is in our weary brains, the stink of despair in our nostrils. It is so easy to surrender to it all, become indifferent, seek cheap and futile escapes.

But here is a man who has dared to look at the worst that this world can show of fear and agony and murderous hate, yet still dares to believe that life can be a proud and passionate adventure . . . and that, through the wonder of faith, we can be "captains of our soul," even though we walk in the shadows.

Chowders for These Still Chilly Days

By MARTHA LEE

AS LONG as the weather man predicts low temperatures, the problem in cooking is to have new hot dishes that will satisfy hearty appetites. And the answer is often found in a good-flavored chowder or a substantial soup.

Chowder is usually thick with fish or vegetables, and some cook books call it "super-soup." It is a hot food that supplies the protein, mineral matter, and vitamins of milk, as well as the food value of the other ingredients. Yet it is more interesting in texture and more appetizing in flavor than an ordinary cream soup. Salt pork gives it a distinctive flavor; and, in keeping with an old tradition, the real chowder is poured over crackers before serving.

Clams are usually associated with chowder, but people in different places have varied this rule by making chowder with other kinds of fish, with meat, or with vegetables of many kinds. Often a single vegetable, such as corn, supplies the outstanding flavor.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

½ lb. salt pork, chopped
3 small onions, minced
3 cups boiling water
3 cups diced potatoes
2 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 qt. fresh clams, minced or
2 cans No. 1 minced clams
3 cups milk, scalded
6 pilot or hard crackers

Try out salt pork in large sauce pan; add onions and saute until browned; add boiling water, potatoes and seasonings and boil about 15 minutes, or until potatoes are soft. Heat fresh clams and clam liquor to boiling point, add with milk to soup mixture and again bring to a boil. Pour chowder over plain or crumbled crackers in serving bowls. Makes six servings.

CORN CHOWDER

1 ounce salt pork, diced
6 tbsp. chopped onions
1 1-3 cups (No. 1 can) corn
2 cups boiling water
1 qt. milk
¾ cup mashed potatoes
Salt and pepper
6 crackers

Try out salt pork remove cracklings and saute onions in drippings. Add corn and water and cook 10 minutes. Then add milk, potatoes, pork and onions and heat thoroughly. Season to taste. Pour over crisp crackers and sprinkle cracklings over top, or add crumbled crackers to chowder just before serving. Makes six servings.

Although chowder originated as a community fish stew on the coast of France it was popular in New England during the early days of colonization. And today chowders have been adopted as a main supper or luncheon dish everywhere. You can make a complete meal from a bowl of rich chowder, if you serve with it plenty of crisp crackers, a cool salad, and some simple dessert.

CARROT-POTATO CHOWDER

1 white onion, minced
¼ cup butter
2 cups diced raw potatoes
2 cups boiling water
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. paprika
2 carrots, diced and cooked
2 cups milk, scalded
1 tbsp. flour

Saute onions in 2 tablespoons butter or other shortening until lightly browned, add potatoes and boil about 10 minutes or until potatoes are soft. Add carrots, milk and flour mixed with remaining 2 tablespoons of butter, and cook 5 minutes, stirring until smooth and thickened. Makes 6 servings.

Special bread to serve with soup is so important that it seems to be almost a part of the dish itself. Crackers are always popular, and there is almost endless variety of them today. You can restore crackers to their original crispness by heating them slowly in the oven. Toasted fingers or rounds of dry bread, cheese straws or puffs, and pastry sticks are also good.

'Four Magazines In One' on Sale

Combining four magazines in one, the new April Cosmopolitan is now on sale offering what is probably the most expensive single issue of a magazine ever to be printed. The four book policy, originating in this issue, will be a regular feature of Cosmopolitan, bringing to the reader a greater assortment of stories, more color, more illustrations and many added features.

Some of the writers represented in the new Cosmopolitan for April include Edna Ferber with her new serial, "Saratoga Trunk"; Dorothy Kilgallen, Faith Baldwin and her "Temporary Address: Reno," a complete novel; C. V. R. Thompson, "Benjamin Blake," by Edison Marshall, a book-length novel; and Eleanor Harris, Alexander Woollcott, Katherine Albert, Donald E. Keyhoe.

OTTO SCOOPS

Mr. Ed Reardon, Gen. Mgr., Reardon & Woodward, states that the newly acquired Pontiac is going over fine. This organization dates back 20 years as an outstanding dealer in Roxbury, where it occupies a modern building with new and used car sales facilities and a complete service station with latest equipment to service Pontiac cars . . .

ED REARDON
Reardon & Woodward

Jack Karas, major domo of Karas Auto Sales, is back from his annual vacation in Florida sporting a beautiful tan . . . Walter MacQuesten, used car salesman at Cadillac-Olds, is plenty quick-witted. Some of those retorts he gets off are pips. Harold Moye more than pleased with fine showing for February. The men are certainly putting Moye Chevrolet across . . . Eddie Wolfe and Dave Kasef are doing very well at Allston Motors. The stock changes daily, that's how we know.

WALTER MacQUESTION
Cadillac-Olds

Jimmy Conroy of Fields Corner has joined the sales staff at Harold O'Neil's and from reports had started off with a bang . . . Edward X. McDevitt is following in his brother Dan's footsteps. He now holds several titles at Highland Chev., among them Service Mgr. and Used Car Mgr. . . . The Jackson Chevrolet 1st anniversary party Thursday night promises to be a big time with a 7-pc. band, movies, floor show and a cake this tall.

We understand that Private Allan Lipkin, stationed at Camp Edwards is keeping the mails busy with ardent missives to Shirley Barrow of Cypress Motors in Brookline . . . The success of Vic Belotti's Olds agency in Somerville has even surpassed his fondest expectations . . . The punchboard competition at Stidham Motors has the whole force on tenterhooks. At last reports—Bill Dacey well stymied for top place. Thomas F. McManus, general manager of Wayland Motors says that spring is just around the corner, judging from the rapid pick up in his biz.

THOMAS F. McMANUS
Wayland Motors

At Levine, formerly connected with the Standard Acceptance, is new general manager of Hub Motor Car Co. Al's many friends wish him the best of luck.

Louis Patkin, Malden Cadillac Olds dealer, was on the job last week following an enjoyable vacation in Florida. He's sporting an enviable tan . . . Union Motor Sales, Somerville Cadillac and Pontiac agency, chalked up many new and used sales during the month of February . . . Peter Rose of Coolidge Corner Chevrolet is kept quite busy delivering the many sales made by his outfit . . .

VIC. BELOTTI
Belotti Olds

Congratulations to Norman Blaikie of Packard Motor who is the proud father of a new daughter named Madelaine . . . The T. C. Baker lot in Brookline Village is registering new high marks in the sale of used cars . . . Frank Cousins, is planning to open up the Hoover Used Car lot out on the Fellsway, the middle of this month . . . Who owns the lovely telephone voice at Coombs Motor of Watertown?

Defense programs are cutting into the automobile ranks . . . Carl Rogers of the Newton Buick Co. has accepted a position with one of the armament companies.

DON'T LET MONEY WORRIES "get you down"

What's the use of worrying? If you need money to pay the doctor, the hospital, taxes, or other bills, you can borrow from $40 to $1000 or more through the Shawmut "TIME LOAN PLAN" by meeting a few simple requirements.

12 TO 20 MONTHS TO PAY

Cost is low and you have from 12 to 20 months to repay, in equal monthly installments.

YOU ESTABLISH SHAWMUT BANK CREDIT

When you borrow from the Shawmut to pay bills and consolidate personal debts, you establish your credit with one of New England's oldest and largest banks. . . . You receive a Shawmut Credit Reference Card which will be helpful in arranging future loans upon prompt completion of the scheduled monthly payments.

YOU MAY HAVE LIFE INSURANCE PROTECTION

You may have life insurance protection on an unsecured loan if you are under 60. . . . In this way, your family is protected as the insurance company automatically takes care of unpaid installments in case of a borrower's death. This is but one of the EXTRA advantages of using this plan when you borrow.

BORROW $100 . . . RECEIVE $100

When you borrow $100 under this plan, you receive $100 in cash. Whatever amount you borrow, it is available to you immediately upon acceptance of your application.

NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS

You make no assignment of wages. The agreement under which you obtain your loan here is simple and easy to understand.

LOANS WITH OR WITHOUT CO-MAKERS

In many cases we do not require co-makers. During 1940 we made thousands of such loans. We endeavor to arrange loans your way if possible.

LOANS WITH COLLATERAL

If you have acceptable collateral such as listed stocks or bonds or a savings account, etc., to pledge as security for your loan, you obtain certain advantages. Many of our borrowers benefit by making loans in this way.

AUTO LOANS

With your car as security, a loan can be obtained at attractive rates, without a co-maker.

OUTSTANDING FOR CONVENIENCE

The "TIME LOAN PLAN" offered by the Shawmut Bank, the pioneer in Boston in making loans to individuals, is outstanding for convenience. You may apply for a loan or make payments at any of the 17 conveniently-located offices of the bank . . . where you will receive prompt, confidential service.

GARRY SCHUMACHER SAYS:

If It's a Gambling Game They Have It at Havana

HAVANA, March 5—When Americans first get hold of Cuban money they complain because is so frayed looking and soiled. But after they've been there for awhile they understand why. It passes from hand to hand so fast it can't help but wear thin.

JUDGE LANDIS

If ever money was made to gamble with it is this Cuban dinero. And there never was a currency that got wider opportunities. A fellow has only to name a game to find somebody in Havana who will bet him he can't play it.

That goes from the shell game right out to the race track, and the dodges in between are without number. Why, they even play faro here. Until I saw it played at the Casino I thought "Old Tige" was a dead animal.

But they try to give his tail the twist here, and the full whirl goes on through bolito (the numbers game), Jai Lai, the national lottery, cock fighting, roulette, craps and even baseball.

Judge Landis would throw up his hands in holy horror if the administration of Cuban baseball came within his juriadiction. If there is one type of fellow the Judge doesn't like it is the guy who bets on baseball games, and at Tropical Park, the local Yankee Stadium, they don't do anything but.

* * *

There's a Bet for Every Situation

The ebullient Cuban addicts will bet on anything that happens on the ball field, from the next strike to the result of the game. And it is a mistake to think that you know more about baseball than the fellow who makes the book. He doesn't make the book. He wrote it.

There's a bookie at the ball park they call "Soupio," and he it was who taught some of the writers the finer things about baseball back in 1937. At a fee, of course. A couple of yards passed hands before the writers realized that "Soupio" knew more about baseball, as it is played in Cuba, than they did.

As a judge of baseball talent "Soupio" is probably without an equal on the island of Cuba. Not even Mike Gonzales or Dolf Luque can rate the players more accurately.

But his real trick is his price list. He always adds the extra point that makes the bet look like a sure thing to the fellow who would bet. When the Giants, Los Jigantes, were here in 1937, for instance, he made the local teams 7 and 8 to 5 favorites over them.

It looked like a steal, and that's just what the Giant followers thought. What they neglected, and what he knew, was the fact that the Cuban teams were in prime condition, at the end of their regular season, while the Giants weren't yet ready for curve ball pitching. The Cubans won every game.

Incidentally, "Soupio's" book ought to be interesting when the Dodgers tangle with the Havana teams. Larry MacPhail didn't make the same mistake Bill Terry did. He's having his Dodgers play the Cubans AFTER they've had a couple of games under their belt, have looked at the pitching of Hubbell, Gumbert and Bobby Feller.

Pools Most Popular Ball Park Gamble

The most popular betting medium at the ball park is a pool selling arrangement, priced from five cents up. It is pretty much of a lottery. The bettor picks a pool slip that lists a position—shortstop, pitcher, left field, etc.—and the pool is decided by the first run that is scored. "Pee

B. C. BOARD SET TO PICK DENNY MYERS OF BROWN

By WALTER KILEY

Denny E. Myers, a native of Mason City, Iowa, and most recently line coach at Brown University, will be named this week as head football coach at Boston College. Announcement of Myers' succession to the position vacated by Frank Leahy will be made by Boston College authorities probably on Friday afternoon, by Saturday at the latest.

This writer is making no wild stab on making known Myer's approaching appointment.

He has definite information that the Boston College graduate board is virtually unanimous in agreement on selecting Myers, that Fr. Maurice J. Dullea, S. J., faculty director of athletics, is sold on him, and that only routine consideration of other candidates prevents immediate release of the story.

My understanding is that Myers is 90 per cent in as new Eagles coach and that there's only one chance in ten that a last minute switch might be affected.

SPRING WORK NEAR

A new batch of applications came flooding in over the past week-end forcing the Heights' officials to hold up the Myers announcement a few days longer. But they are anxious to get the decks cleared for action so that Myers can appoint his assistants and begin the serious work of spring practice next week.

However, to keep the records straight, we present here the full list of applicants still surving.

They are Myers, Chick Shea of New Britain, Ct., high school coach; Francis Schmidt, former Ohio State coach; Clipper Smith, ex-Villanova; George Kenneally, ex-pro star and Revere High coach; Ted Galligan, only B. C. athlete on the list; Dutch Bergman, ex-Catholic University; Moon Mullins, former Notre Dame back; Harry Mehre of Mississippi State, and Herb Kopf of Manhattan.

Of them all Myers alone has been interviewed by the graduate board in secret session, at which time he showed moving pictures to the board members which in slow motion clearly outlined his principles of line play. They were pictures of the Brown-Holy Cross and Brown-Colgate games of 1940.

BRILLIANT CAREER

Myers' football career has been brilliant. He is recognized as a master technician of football, a 12-months coach who won the admiration of Brown students, alumni and players.

He was given the unqualified endorsement of Tuss McLaughry, former head coach at Brown, when the latter resigned to take over at Dartmouth. Tuss recommended him highly to the B. C. authorities.

Myers was almost a legendary figure in his high school lineman days at Mason City, Iowa, and later when he played guard on the great

Bradley May 'Tell All' If Crybaby Tag Sticks

FT. MYERS, March 5 (AP)—Cleveland Indians' prexy Alva Bradley promised today to "tell the true story of last summer's trouble" between the players and discharged manager, Oscar Vitt, if the Indians again this season were made the target for such appelations as "Cry Babies."

"I kept quiet at the time because the idea of hurting anyone was distasteful to me," Bradley said. "Already I see signs that some of Oscar Vitt's friends among the non-Cleveland newspaper men aren't willing to forget.

"I hope their number is limited, and for that reason I won't go into detail at this time. But the minute it becomes evident that the players will be subjected to any such abuse as they took last season, I'll tell the whole story and let the public decide for itself whether the boys were right or wrong."

Bradley's remarks were prompted by an open letter to him in the Cleveland News, calling on the Tribe president to "go to bat for his ball players," who rebelled against the reign of Vitt.

After the Indians finished only a game behind the champion Detroit Tigers, Vitt was replaced last fall by Roger Peckinpaugh, now starting his second term as Cleveland pilot. Vitt is managing the Portland, Ore., club.

Grimes Goes Out on Limb That Bees Will Pack Power

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 5—Since the year that Wally Berger hit a million (more or less) home runs and the Braves wound up with 35 victories out of more than 150 starts, New England baseball fans have been laboring under the impression that there was no power over at National League Field.

A smart baseball expert (so called would never stick his neck out early in March. But, smart or dumb, your operative will go out on a limb and declare that the 1941 Bees will pack more power than any Boston National League club has displayed in years.

At this time a year ago, Eddie Miller was the only member of the Bees who had a worthwhile lien on his job. He was, and still is, the outstanding major league shortstop.

Buddy Hassett and Les Scarsella were in the midst of a bitter battle for the first base job. The second base berth was as wide open as the Boston Common, with Tony Cuccinello, Sibby Sisti and Billy Weitelmann all trying to get the nod from Casey Stengel. Then, because Heine Majeski didn't measure up to expectations, Cuccinello was shifted over to the hot corner.

TWO BUSHERS IN INFIELD

Finally, when the cards were laid face up on the table, Hassett was at the initial sack, 'Bama Rowell was warded the second base job and Sibby Sisti was stationed at third base.

Slapsie Maxie West was the fair-haired boy of the outfielders. As to where he was to play, even Manager Casey Stengel didn't know from day to day.

Chet Ross, who was brought up from Evansville, came up from nowhere and picked the left field berth. So Max West was shifted over to right field. And, when Hub Bates, Bob Loan and Jimmy Outlaw flopped, Johnny Cooney was assigned to play center field.

With two "Sugar Bush" (Rowell and Sisti) in the infield and another (Ross) in left field, the 1940 Bees didn't register any too well with the fans.

But this is another year, and the Bees are a far more formidable club than they were at any time last year, even when they startled the National League, by their late season spurt.

MILLER EVEN BETTER

Eddie Miller has played a season and a half in the big league. He was put out for the year at the half-way mark of the 1939 season, when Lumbering Al Simmons broke his leg. He's 50 per cent better than he was last spring and there isn't any reason in the world why he shouldn't hit .300 this season.

Sibby Sisti and Bama Rowell are entering their sophomore years.

After batting for less than .150 for the first half of last season, Sisti was straightened out by Casey Stengel and wound up with an average of .251. Rowell was a standout at the bat hitting for .305 and he improved so much defensively that President Bob Quinn could get at least $25,000 for him if he put him on the market.

Babe Dahlgren has never been a great hitter to the fans who scan the batting averages. But he has always finished well up on the list in the "runs batted in" department.

The Bees will in all probability, start the season with Chet Ross in left field, Earl Averill in center and Gene Moore in right. And, believe it or not, there is plenty of power in that trio.

As a freshman, Ross hit for .281. He was in the .300 class until late in the season, when he slumped because he was over-swinging. Ross is a .300 hitter in any man's league and he'll probably drive in more than 100 runs this coming season.

Moore was played enough in Brooklyn before he was purchased by the Bees to get the feel of things and his combined batting average was only .269. Gene is 30 years of age but he has always taken the best care of himself and under Casey Stengel he should have one of his best years.

Mrs. Comiskey Won't Change Chisox System

CHICAGO, March 5 (INS)—Mrs. Grace Reidy Comiskey, who became the first woman to head an American League baseball club with her election yesterday as president of the Chicago White Sox, said today nothing will be changed in the management of the team.

The presidency of the ball club had been vacant since the death on July 18, 1939, of J. Louis Comiskey, and his widow pledged that she will continue her late husband's policies.

"Everything will go along just as it has in the past," she said.

Mrs. Comiskey's election came just a month after she had regained control of the club for the Comiskey family through the purchase of stock, and by a circuit court order directing that she and two daughters replace the First National Bank of Chicago as trustee of her husband's estate.

It was indicated active management of the team would remain in the hands of Harry M. Grabiner, who was re-elected vice-president.

PETE FOX WANTS DAILY JOB IN 1941 BOSOX OUTFIELD

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5—Single-X Fox (Pete from Detroit) is a free-swinger and a free-thinker.

For example, Pete is a right-handed batter, and yet he'd rather bat against right-handers than southpaws.

"I made 208 hits for the Tigers in '37, and 186 in '38, and most of those were against right-handers."

So if Pete has his way there'll be no alternating Finney (a left-handed hitter) and himself. Pete wants to play every day. He always did until last year, and he plans to do so again this year.

"I'm no good unless I'm in there all the time," says Pete, "and that's why I was tickled to get away from Detroit.

WANTED TO BE TRADED

"I played only about half the games last year (he played in 93, batted .289) and I didn't like it. I could see the handwriting on the wall last spring when I wasn't used in the exhibition games.

"I asked Del (Baker) to trade me then but he wouldn't hear of it (Cleveland wanted Fox), so there was nothing for me to do but play the string out.

"After the world series I figured I was doomed because of the non-trading rule applying to A. L. champions, and so I was agreeably surprised when I found out I was sold outright to the Sox in December.

"I won't be 32 until March 8, and my baseball days are far from numbered. I'll show Joe Cronin a lot of good baseball."

CRONIN LIKES FOX

Cronin, in truth, likes Fox. He admits he had been trying to get Pete for four years before he hooked him.

Fox has crowded a lot of baseball into his eight years with the Tigers. He was a member of the Detroit American League champions of 1934.

In 1935 Detroit went on to win A. L. flag and the World Series as well, with Pete leading the entire Bengal pack in the World Series in batting and runs batted in.

Pete is a native of Evansville, Ind., site of the Bees' class B farm.

"We had a big family," Pete says, "and I had to get out and hustle. Played sandlot ball around Evansville, and the club (then a Detroit farm) gave me a trial. Hank Greenberg played there with me. Next year we both were with Beaumont in the Texas League and then up to the Tigers in '33 to stay."

Pete forgot to mention that he hit .357 at Beaumont and sparked the club to the Texas League pennant.

He has a .302 average for his eight years in the big time and is confident he'll better that average now that he'll have a chance to play half of his games at Fenway Park with its chummy left field fence.

Big Stadium Ruined '40 Indians, Claims Fox

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5—Pete Fox doesn't subscribe to the popular theory that the mid-summer night's dream of the Cleveland players was responsible for them losing the pennant. He attributes it to the fact that they shifted their Saturday, Sunday and holiday games to Municipal Stadium.

"Of course they needed the stadium for those large crowds," Pete says, "but those long drives Trosky and the rest used to get home runs on at League Park were just routine putouts at the more spacious stadium.

"They lost the flag by only 2 games, and they lost many more than two games by playing those Saturday, Sunday and holiday games away from their chummy League Park. They had the pitching. The other contenders didn't. They needed those long hits they were missing."

• • •

Because of the non-trading rule applying to Detroit, Fox, like many others, cannot see Detroit in the flag race this year.

"I wonder what they'll use for an outfield if Hank Greenberg is drafted in June," Pete muses.

• • •

Joe Cronin admits Lou Finney will be the first baseman when and if Jimmy Foxx is laid up this year. This means Ulysses Lupien will wind up in foreign pastures . . . Cronin likes the work of Tex Hughson, Texas U. boy up from Louisville.

"He's got good action on the mound, and knows how to throw to first and second base," opines the Sox skipper.

• • •

Di Maggio, Finney-Fox, Foxx, Cronin Tabor, Doerr, Pytlak hit in that order in Team A batting practice, which is a hint that the only position on the team unsettled is right field where Lou Finney and Pete Fox are battling . . . Carey, Newsome, Lupien, Flair, Campbell, Spence, Barrett, Hale, Berg and Walsh are the B batters.

• • •

Frank Shellenback spends a lot of time with the young hurlers showing them how to hide their pitches. It is surprising how many telegraph them . . . Joe Cronin attributes it to night ball, claiming the coaches at first and third can't see well enough to detect the tell-tale signs . . . Because of that, Herb Pennock has been instructed to have all the Sox farm hands stage morning practice this year, so that their managers can see what they are doing wrong.

Leiber and Danning Mentioned in Trade

By the Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., March 5—Trade talk filled the New York Giants' camp today as a result of a wire to Manager Bill Terry from Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs asking whether Bill would be interested in Hank Leiber, the big outfielder he once traded away.

Discussions centered around a Leiber-for-Hank Danning trade. Terry, who needs a shortstop, too, because of Bill Jurges' ailment, announced only two of his players wouldn't be considered as trading material. They are Abe Young and Johnny Rucker. Danning, who had his first workout yesterday, is holding out for $18,000, against a Giant offer of $15,000. Leiber also is a holdout.

FT. MYERS, Fla.—The Cleveland Indians are due to leave for Havana today to play the Brooklyn Dodgers in a three-game, week-end series. Bob Feller is scheduled to pitch a game.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. — The big "busts" of the 1940 Pittsburgh pitching staff and the question marks of 1941 are to be among the first called upon to show their stuff this spring, Mgr. Frank Frisch said Russ Bauers and Long John Gee would be sent out today or tomorrow and told to open up in a practice game.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Louis (Buck) Newsom came up with an old prediction and a "new" thumb as he joined the Detroit Tigers yesterday. He predicted a record season for himself, declaring the thumb he fractured last year "kept me out of having a record season." With 20 pitchers in camp, including several promising rookies, Detroit's veterans appear to have a battle ahead.

AVALON, Cal.—Paul Erickson, Tulsa rookie, was scheduled to pitch for the Chicago Cubs' varsity against Charley Root in the team's first intra-squad game today. Manager Jimmy Wilson says Erickson "has the appearance of a future great pitcher."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Tommy Henrich, who was considered for the Yankees' first base job taken over yesterday by Joe Gordon, is convinced he'll be the regular right fielder this season. The knee injury that put Heinrich out of action last season is fully healed. Tommy says he'll beat out George Selkirk for the position, "if hustle and hitting can win me the regular job."

ORLANDO, Fla.—Jimmy Bloodworth and Buddy Myer are letting their bats do the talking in a duel for the Washington second base post. Myer, now 36, can outfield Bloodworth and in the past has outhit him by 30 points. But Jimmy has youth in his favor, as well as the power he can muster when he does connect.

TAMPA, Fla.—The outfield, one of Cincinnati's weakest departments last spring, is giving Manager Bill McKechnie another kind of headache because of a surplus of talent. Deacon Bill has five top-notchers—Ival Goodman, Mike McCormick, Jimmy Ripple, Jimmy Gleason and Harry Craft—and promising rookies like Dutch Meie, Mike Christoff and Mike Dejan.

ANAHEIM, Cal. — Rained out two successive days, the Philadelphia Athletics were doubtful about playing today's exhibition against the Portland Coast Leaguers. "It's the worst spring in my memory, as far as weather goes," said Connie Mack as a check showed rain had fallen 19 of the 22 days the A's have been in camp.

HAVANA—Alex Kampouris, banished to the minors last season by the New York Giants because he couldn't hit, may earn the Brooklyn second base job on his hitting. He blasted 38 home runs for Newark and has been showing the same kind of power in the Dodgers' camp. Manager Leo Durocher says such clouting "can't be passed over lightly."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Shortstop Martin Marion, who went to work immediately after signing his contract yesterday, will play in the St. Louis Cardinals' intra-squad game today. Manager Billy Southworth reiterated that he plans to use Marion in his No. 1 infield, with Jimmy Brown at second and Steve Mesner at third.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Jim Tobin and Manuel Salvo are regarded as the two hurlers who will carry most of the load for the Boston Bees this season. Although it's doubtful either will be a 20-game winner, they appear the surest bets at pre-season examination. Tobin won seven games last season and Salvo 10.

Last Call Issued By Kanaly

Amateur boxers in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island get their last chance to make the qualifying round of the 1941 New England A. A. A. U. boxing championships next Monday night at the Boston Arena when the Irish American A. A. stages the third and final elimination show.

As no state championships are to be held in either New Hampshire or Rhode Island this year, Chairman Gene Driscoll of the New England A. A. A. U. urges all youthful boxers in those States who want to try to win a New England championship to enter next week's final tryout.

Bouts will be held in all eight classes at championship weights. All entries must be made in writing and filed with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

The biffers have already started to sign up for next week in large numbers. Blanks are already on file from Clem Crowley, Dorchester, and Tommy Luckman, Brockton, in the 112; Fred Petrone, Worcester, and Reginald Remsen, Saugus, in the 118; Edward Kalil, Boston, in the 126; Dom DiTomasso, Camp Edwards, and Alfred Carroll, Medford, in the 135.

DENNY MYERS MAY BE NAMED FOR B. C. JOB

Iowa University teams of '27, '28 and '29, then coached by Bert Ingwerson.

Upon graduation, Myers coached one year at Mason City High, and then played professional football, mostly for the Chicago Bears. Then he went to West Virginia University as line coach under Greasy Neale in the bright days down there when West Virginia was a power against major opposition.

BUILT GREAT LINES

While at West Virginia, Denny studied law and in 1934 he went with Greasy Neale to Yale where he served as line coach under Ducky Pond. In '34 and '35, Meyers' lines were recognized as the greatest developed in New Haven in a decade. Those were the days of Larry Kelley.

He was at Brown four years in all. On his arrival, the Bruins hadn't won a major game in three years. In his first year, Brown turned in one of the greatest upsets of the year by beating an outstanding Colgate team, 7-6.

Despite ordinary material, Brown continued to improve and last year had the most successful season since 1932, winning six, losing three and tying one game. They beat Holy Cross, Army and Yale and tied Columbia.

Myers is about 6 ft. 1 inch, weighs 215 pounds, is 35 years old, makes an impressive appearance. He was line coach under McLaughry of the All-Star team which turned in a masterpiece by beating the New York Giants 16-7 at the Polo Grounds last fall.

WON DEBATING TITLE

He loves football and lives it every day of the year. He is rabid about football movies and he studies them with eagle eye four to five hours a day. He is married, and his wife is almost as well versed in technical football lore as he.

During his high school days, he won the state schoolboy debating championship at Mason City, and then drove 40 miles the same evening to finish a finalist in the state wrestling schoolboy championships.

When McLaughry left Brown for Dartmouth, the students indicated their respect for Myers when out of an entire enrollment of some 1400 at Brown more than 900 of them signed a petition for him to be named as head coach. It is said that the only reason McLaughry did not take him to Dartmouth is a reported agreement McLaughry made at Hanover that he would not raid any other New England staff.

LIKES FLASHY ATTACKS

Denny is said to have a nice flair for the flashy in offenses and in many quarters is credited with being the inventor of the modern "mousetrap" plays.

He is an excellent speaker, inclined to the humorous and created a most favorable impression with Brown alumni and students in the banquet league.

While recognized as a so-called "driver" on the field, his players have been his biggest boosters. He is said to have many pet offensive maneuvers which have needed only the oulet of his being a head coach to bring successful results.

Burman to Box Webb in N. Y. Garden

NEW YORK, March 5 (INS)—Another fistic mixup loomed in the announcement by Promoter Mike Jacobs that Clarence (Red) Burman, a heavyweight, will fight Jimmy Webb, light heavyweight title challenger, March 21 in Madison Square Garden.

Jacobs said the match would replace the bout between lightweight champion Lew Jenkins and Bob Montgomery which originally was scheduled for that date. He explained that Jenkins would be unable to fight because of eye lacerations sustained in his recent duel with Lou Ambers.

THE CASE OF VERA S———

Clerk

Vera S———, 24, single, living with her parents at 89 B——— St., Boston, Mass. She has been employed as a clerk in a Boston department store for the past 4 years. Her need for a loan arose following an emergency operation. Hospitalization expenses were more than her savings account could cover. She secured a loan of $200 to be repaid in 12 convenient monthly payments. When interviewed she made the following statements: "The company from which I secured my loan extended me all the courtesy possible. There was no delay or embarrassment. I heartily recommend this method of obtaining a loan to those who find themselves confronted by unexpected emergencies."

Miss S——— obtained her loan from the N——— Loan Company, a consistent advertiser in the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

SCHOOLBOY KEGLERS FILE FOR TOURNEY

Six brand new alleys, making a huge total of 72 alleys, have been installed by Manager Stafford at the Huntington Club to take care of the tremendous field expected in the sixth annual American-Record grand candlepin bowling championships.

Huntington Club, with its previous 66 alleys, was the largest bowling organization in the world, having the most number on the one floor. With the addition of the half dozen recently installed lanes, Stafford's emporium gains new prestige—72 of them in the one long shining row. They take up an entire city block.

INCREASE SCHOOL BOWLERS

Among the divisions which have been growing by leaps and bounds in the American-Record tournament ever since they were first tried out as experimental divisions some four years ago are the high school competitions for boys and girls.

The school youngsters are flocking to the bowling wars in ever increasing numbers and there has been a healthy increase in school entries yearly.

First of the schoolboys to enroll for the 1941 championship going are William Bateman of Dorchester and Louis Lodi of Somerville, a pair of talented keglers who are hopeful of knocking down not only a goodly number of pins but also the handsome championship prizes.

STUDY ENTRY BLANK

Also along school lines is the special college men's championship division, limited to fellows now attending New England colleges. This class is growing to be one of the biggest of the tournament.

The entry blank best tells the story of the American-Record competition. The tournament committee urges all bowlers—male or female—to study the blank carefully, then fill out and mail immediately. The earlier the better.

East Boston Runners Lead in District Meet

East Boston High piled up 35 points in yesterday's district meet field events, with the running event finals listed for Saturday at the East Armory track.

South Boston High was second with 29½, Hyde Park 29, Roslindale 18, Brighton 12 and Jamaica Plain 8½, finished in that order.

Columbia Nears E. L. Court Lead

NEW YORK, March 5 (INS)—The Columbia Lions today were a notch closer to wresting the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball leadership from Dartmouth, having staged a brilliant second half rally to beat Princeton, 41 to 33, last night. Dartmouth now leads the league by only one game.

Behind the Net

Howie Morenz called "Pit" Lepine the greatest center in hockey . . . the tall, slender Lepine was Howie's teammate and played for Canadiens from 1926 to 1938 . . . Pit succeeded Frank Nighbor, "King of the Poke-checkers," as the most ruthless play-stopper in the game . . . Pit's ambidextrous poke-checking with his unusually long reach broke up opponents' plays in midice, and he was equally effective on offense . . . Pit holds the NHL record for most goals in a game, netting five against the Americans in '29. WHIT CUSHING.

Mikkelsen Taught Ruuds Skiing Form

By TAP GOODENOUGH

Synonymous with the sport of skiing and ski jumping is the name of Strand Mikkelsen.

This tall, slim and stalwart wearer of the winged boards is the ski instructor at the Weldon Hotel, Greenfield, Mass., and he also operates the Greenfield ski tows.

Strand has been keenly interested in helping people to learn his art ever since he become proficient on the hickories.

It was at Kongsberg, Norway, during the winter of 1924 that he showed Sigmund Ruud how to improve his form.

"Maybe I shouldn't have told Sigmund anything about his form," stated Strand, "because in 1925 he won every jumping meet in Norway, and later all over the world. After him came his brother, Birger Ruud, Olympic champion in ski jumping 1932-1936 and downhill champ for 1036. His slalom running missed."

Back in the dim days of 1924, Mikkelsen had water on both knees, but he still managed to take fourth place in the national jumping championship at Voss, Norway (the home town of Knute Rockne).

Inspired by this effort, our leaper pointed his ski tips skywards and soared towards fame. He was crowned champ of Western Canada in 1926 and '27, then topped the field in Class A at Lake Placid in 1928, going on to capture the Nationals at Brattleboro, Vt., his most thrilling achievement.

After these flirtations with the stars, Strand, simply for the love of the sport, taught skiing to hundreds at the Weldon Hotel. He always advocated plenty of "vorlage" and knees well-bent, but not too low a crouch.

Turning professional in 1933, he gave exhibitions at the Boston Garden Winter Sports Show. He also continued his teaching with great success. Last summer, he taught water skiing at Lake Tahoe, California.

Strand's partner in operating the Greenfield ski tows, is Ken Suhl, famous skiing comedian who performs on barrel staves.

The tows have been running every week-end, rain or shine, over ice or powder. The fellows work hard on the slopes, grading them like golf courses. When snow is scarce the elusive white substance is dragged from sheltered woods and trails and packed on the bare spots.

Stressing safety, Strand says that his hills have been devoid of any serious accidents in four years, an enviable record. He sees the sport as a growing business, giving health and happiness to all. A true friend of skiing and skiers is this expert from Norway.

SKI SCRIBBLINGS

While on the subject of ski jumpers, don't forget that next Sunday, March 9, is the day set for the Eastern Championships at the Belknap Mountains area in Gilford-Laconia, N. H. . . . Here is your chance to see Torger Tokle, the 21-year-old Norwegian, who has been invincible for the past two years. Only last week-end he set a new record for North America when he flew from the take-off for 288 feet, an amazing distance! . . . More than 90 entrants will compete at this big meet, and the price of admission also includes access to all tows and lifts in the area.

Sel Hannah, celebrated schusser of Franconia, N. H., and his wife, Polly, are going to drive out to Sun Valley in a couple of weeks. Ted Hunter, another ex-Dartmouth racer, will accompany them.

Both boys are going to race in the National Championships and other big events in the West . . . Good luck!

This writer found the best trail running of the season last week-end on Cannon Mountain, with eight inches of new powder snow at the summit. After skiing on ice all winter, the going was really wonderful . . . The new Alpine lift finally started on Saturday, conveying two skiers at once from the link of the Cannon and Tram Ravine Trails to the top. It aids greatly in relieving congestion in the valley station, and should prove a boon for spring skiing . . . But don't try to thumb a ride on it!

BRUINS SHIP MEL HILL TO HERSEY

Sitting smugly right on top of the National Hockey League, Les Bruins are ready for the bitter stretch drive through five remaining games with 14 men fit and ready.

Deciding this morning that Mel Hill might do the battered Hershey farm club more good than the B's, Manager Art Ross shuttled Mel to Springfield today to have him available for the game with Eddie Shore's Indians tonight.

This move, though, will cause no great concern. In fact, it will be lightly thought of by the 10,000 who saw the B's whip the Black Hawks 3 to 2 to take undisputed possession of first place from the idle Maple Leafs.

BREAKS RECORD BY TEN

For those fans who braved the elements to watch last night's affair saw Bill Cowley not only shatter Joe Primeau's 1931-32 record for assists by sinking two to give him 38, one more than the old figure, but they saw the greatest exhibition of goal tending ever witnessed at the Old Depot.

A young fellow named Sam LoPresti who hails from Evelyth, Minn., Frankie Brimsek's home town, handled the Hawks citadel. Those Bruins fired 83 shots at him—that's right 83. He turned no less than 80 of them away to set up a new all time National Hockey League record.

The old record made by Bill Beveridge was turned in on the same surface some eight years ago when he kicked 70 shots out while wear an Ottawa uniform.

LoPresti erased that figure by 10. He was amazing.

WISEMAN BREAKS UP GAME

Those Bruins hit him from every angle. He made stops that just weren't in the books. The three he missed, couldn't have been stopped even if Frankie Brimsek was helping him.

It was a performance that may never be equalled at the Garden again. Yet, he was the losing goalie. It wouldn't have been fair, though, for the Bruins to come up with anybody but a win despite LoPresti for the Rossmen were really flying last night.

They just hammered away all night while Frankie Brimsek at the other end was just about the loresomest guy in the "joint." Mr. Zero's stops for the night per period were 5—5—8.

But strangely enough, despite the one sidedness of the tilt, the Bruins had no cinch in winning.

In fact Eddie Wiseman fired home his own rebound at 17:29 in the final period when it looked as though the game was going into overtime.

STYMIED—Milt Schmidt, Bruin's center, found Sam LoPresti, Hawks goalie, too tough to pass. LoPresti, set a new stops record against the Bruins despite the fact that he was the loser. He made 80 saves to surpass the old mark by ten.

Cowley Happy Over New Record

Sam Lo Presti not only made a new all time N. H. L. record for 80 stops in a game but he also set a one period figure when he blocked 31 Bruin efforts in the second canto. In the first period he came up with 27 and wound up with 22 in the final chukker.

Dit Clapper fired 13 shots for the Bruins high and went scoreless. After Dit came Cowley with 12, Wiseman with 10, Smith with 9, and Crawford with 8. The remaining shots were: Conacher 7, Dumart 6, Bauer 4, Schmidt 4, Jackson 3, Hill 2, Cain 2

* * *

Probably the happiest gent in the Bruins dressing room after the game was Bill Cowley. The Cowboy not only broke Joe Primeau's assist record of 36 by coming up with two to bring his total to 38, but he moved his total points for the year to 52, which insures him of the individual scoring crown . . . incidentally, Cowley has now equalled Milt Schmidt's total of 52, which Schmiddy made last year and which was enough to give him the N. H. L. crown.

The B's have five games remaining and if they can get by Les Canadiens Sunday and Toronto Tuesday, they should win the title for the third successive year.

* * *

The Toronto game next Tuesday night which in all probability will settle the National Hockey League title race could have easily been a sellout before the public sale started . . . Mail orders and checks are already being returned . . . the Bruins management, because of the fact that there have been complaints that no tickets were available through the windows for sellouts, is holding between 1000 and 2000 ducats which will be on the Garden rack when the windows open Thursday morning.

* * *

Last night was the Bruins first home appearance since ending their 23-game streak last Tuesday . . . the dressing room before the game looked rather strange with the B's in clean "undies" . . . Capt. Dit Clapper didn't allow any of the gang to make a change during the streak that lasted over months.

Earl Seibert was the Garden villain and Dit Clapper was the hero of gallery gods when he sent Seibert sprawling with a vicious check in the second period . . . if the Garden was on an economy wave, they could have fired half the sweepers and dropped one of the water trucks for new ice as practically all the action was around the Hawks nets.

* * *

The Boston hockey writers will vote next Tuesday night to determine the Bruin who gets the Dufresne Trophy which is awarded annually to the club's outstanding player . . . The Hawks suffered no little when they lost Johnny Mariucci, rough and tough defenseman, who was forced to exit in the first period . . . he got tangled up with Bobby Bauer on the boards and Little Robert's skate pierced Johnny's shoe to open a wide gash and nick the tendon which required six stitches to close . . . Johnny had just returned to action Sunday after being out five weeks with a bad hip.

* * *

Too bad human shots don't count in the scoring records . . . Art Jackson drove Earl Seibert right into his own cage and the obliging goal judge, Lou Raycroft, flashed the red light, but Bill Stewart couldn't see the humor of the situation.

Private Casey Tackles O'Toole

Private Steve Casey, U. S. Army, rules a slight favorite to vanquish Tommy O'Toole when the twain meet tonight in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's all-star tournament at the Arena.

O'Toole has one decision over Casey, but big Steve is determined to even up matters.

If verbal support means anything, Private Casey should come through easily, for hundreds of khaki clad soldiers will be in the audience cheering their buddy. Two large buses have been chartered to bring down soldiers and officers from Fourt Constitution, Portsmouth, N. H., where Casey is stationed as a member of Battery A, 22nd Coast Artillery.

That, of course, did Steve's mental health no good and the defeat has been preying on his mind ever since.

Landis Frees Boy From Browns' School "Offer"

CHICAGO, March 5 (AP)—Baseball Commr. K. M. Landis today declared John Novakovich of Los Angles a free agent and decreed that the St. Louis American League club or any subsidiary or affiliate may not contract with him within three years.

Landis said Jack Fournier, scout for the Browns, "induced" Novakovich, a high school boy, to sign an "offer" on Nov. 11, 1939, under which Novakovich agreed that if he decided to enter pro baseball after graduation in 1941 he would sign with the Springfield (Ill.) Browns for $100 a month at the start. The Springfield club is affiliated with the Browns.

"This document was, of course, utterly worthless for any purpose other than causing Novakovich erroneously to believe that he was under obligation to sign a contract as therein mentioned," Landis ruled.

Vitamin Pills Aid Sarazen

Hogan's two birdies helped his team score a best ball 33, two under par and one below the opponents' figures.

Thirty-nine-year-old Sarazen carried a bottle of vitamin pills in his golf bag, but, he said:

"I won't use these unless that fellow Guldahl gets ahead."

The fact that he and Hogan were up against the tournament's hottest team—Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl—bothered Sarazen not at all, for yesterday he discovered a new value of vitamins.

SULLIVAN TO LEAD B. U. HOCKEY TEAM

A Rindge Tech product, Sullivan stepped into the regular freshman goalie position in his first year and made the varsity team in his sophomore year.

In three years, one as a freshman and two with the varsity, he has started every game.

B. U. loses a strong first line of Johnny Chambers, Capt. Paul Brown and Bud Hines, but has most of the squad back for another season.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 5—Sheldon Fairbanks has sold his contract on Jockey Don MacAndrews to the Lexbrook Stable, but has retained first call on the services of this gifted young rider . . . Earl Porter, trainer for the Fairbanks stable and a few years ago one of the leading riders of the country, has taught MacAndrews how to ride.

The Lexbrook Stable has some good horses, and I look to see MacAndrews bring plenty of them home first during the Tropical Park meeting at long prices.

Fairbanks is returning to Boston this week, but hopes to come back to Florida before the close of the Tropical Park meeting . . . A good Believe It or Not picture would have been one of Sheldon, Tom Thorp and Mr. Boston at a table having ice cream sodas between races at Tropical Park . . . The three big sissies!

I met Dave Wilson, Bobby Goldman, Sheldon Fairbanks and a party of friends at Lou Walters' Latin Quarter at Palm Island . . . Lou furnished the champagne for a toast to Wilson, who was crowned handicapping king of Florida after leading all rivals at the recent Hialeah Park meeting, as he had also done at the first Tropical meeting . . . Helen Carroll is one of the stars at the Latin Quarter . . . The place is doing more business than any night spot in the Miami area . . . It is selling out each night and does not need gambling to make it go . . . Just good food, music and the best show in town.

I met Sam Price and Mrs. Price at Tropical Park . . . Sam is promoting wrestling shows in Florida . . . Jack Dempsey has refereed many of Sam's recent shows . . . Gus Sonnenberg drew some good-sized houses in Florida . . . Price made an effort to get The Angel to come here for a title bout with Sonny, but the champion was unable to accept the match, which figured to draw $10,000 in Miami.

Judge James E. Dooley, president of Narragansett Park, is Providence-bound after getting a promise from Edward Moore that Big Pebble will race at Narragansett Park . . . The Judge told me that more owners are seeking stall reservations at Narragansett Park than at any time during the history of the Providence track.

Charles F. Adams, head of Suffolk Downs, plans to remain here until the first part of April . . . Adams was ill before coming here, but his health is now all right . . . He may usually be found at Tropical Park afternoons.

Albatross Possesses Blazing Speed

JACK HOWARD, trainer for Coldstream's speedy Albatross, told me that this colt is one of the fastest two-year-olds he has ever seen . . . Albatross has proved a sensation during the Florida racing season . . . He won his early races easily, and in the juvenile event at the closing of Hialeah Park he proved he can respond when hard pressed . . . Eternal Bull challenged Albatross in the latter stages of the juvenile, but when Jockey Irving Anderson touched Albatross with the whip a couple of times the Coldstream's horse pulled away and won in impressive style.

Jack Howard is considered one of the better trainers . . . He owned and trained Advising Anna at the time this mare furnished a startling upset at Rockingham Park.

It is believed that Gulfstream will be back in the Florida racing picture next season . . . There are numerous groups anxious to acquire this modern racing plant . . . A question of price is all that is holding up the deal . . . Gulfstream has the best grandstand of any track as far as the spectators getting an unobstructed view of everything on the track is concerned . . . There is not a single post in the entire stand other than those on the two sides and the rear . . . The engineers who built it say that the stand will withstand the worst possible hurricane.

Cleveland Made American League Favorite

MIAMI "BOOKS" have installed the Cleveland Indians preseason favorites to win the American League pennant . . . With Roger Peckinpaugh as manager it is believed there will be harmony in the ranks of the Indians and that the club will do what it is capable of . . . The Indians had the best balanced club in the American League last season, but there was too much internal dissension for the team to go places.

The Tigers, Yanks and Red Sox each have some backers . . . It is argued that the Red Sox have a chance to win provided they can get a couple of good pitchers . . . The Indians have Bob Feller, while the Tigers possess Buck Newsom . . .This pitching strength gives these clubs an edge on their rivals . . . Joe McCarthy, like Joe Cronin, is looking for pitchers . . . McCarthy has decided that the old Yanks' machine has broken down and he is rebuilding in all departments.

The calling of draft numbers may be the deciding factor in the major league races . . . The loss of Hank Greenberg early in the season may put the Tigers out of the race . . . Baseball leaders feel that ball players should be deferred in the draft call until the season is over, but other than Larry MacPhail few of them have cared to make public statements on the matter for fear of being subjected to public criticism.

On early season form, the Dodgers will be in there giving the Reds a battle for the National League pennant from the start . . . Joe Medwick is expected to show his batting form from the start, while Leo Durocher is whispering that Van Lingle Mungo may win 20 ball games.

PGA to Break Rule for Little

MIAMI, March 5 (AP)—Lawson Little, the open golf champion, may be made a member of the Professional Golfers' Ass'n by special dispensation in time to compete in the next PGA championships.

The big fellow who swept the amateur field on both sides of the Atlantic in 1934-35 and then embraced the money game, has appealed personally to President Tom Walsh of the PGA to be permitted to join the organization without going through the stipulated five years of making clubs and bawling out caddies.

Olympics Bow In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The league-leading Washington Eagles won their eighth straight game in the Eastern Amateur Hockey League here but had to go overtime to eke out a 4-3 triumph over the lowly Boston Olympics.

Fitzgerald scored all three of the Boston goals, one without assistance.

IF IT'S A GAMBLING GAME THEY HAVE IT AT HAVANA

Wee" Reese scoring the first run, for instance, would win for the players holding the shortstop tickets.

Hundreds of these pools are hawked before the game. But no new pool is started until the old one is exhausted. Thus the bettor can't pick his position, insist, let us say, that his bet be placed on the lead-off man. He's got to take his chances in a blind drawing.

The bet returns 7 to 1. For his nickel the Cuban gets back 40 cents. The extrra nickel goes to the pool seller. The pools are priced at five, ten and twenty cents, and few of them go as high as a dollar.

Naturally, the pool betting adds tremendously to the game's excitement, and it is the cause of the not infrequent disturbances on the field. Spanish blood has a low boiling temperature, and the money at stake heightens the flame.

Pancho's Caution Still Makes Latin Blood Boil

Pancho Snyder, the Giant coach, isn't likely ever to forget one such experience when the Giants were here in 1937. This one happened to be a close game and there wasn't a run scored going into the seventh.

It happened then that the Giants had a runner on second base, with one out, when the batter singled to right field. It looked like a run, but the cautious Snyder held it up at third base. Of course, it was his luck that the next batter bounced into a double play, and then you should have seen the Cuban fanatics. They simply poured out of the stands, and Frank had to run and hide. The folks still remember. They fired a vocal blast at him when he was here with the Giants last week.
